Nazis And Reds To Carve Up Nation: Each Takes Part of Warsaw

UNHAPPY POLAND TO DISAPPEAR FOR FOURTH TIME IN HISTORY

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

BERLIN, SEPT. 22 (UP).—POLAND IS BEING PARTITIONED AGAIN BY GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

THIS IS THE FOURTH TIME IN THE HISTORY OF THE STRICKEN COUNTRY THAT IT HAS BEEN DIVIDED.

ALL THAT REMAINS NOW IS TO BE SEEN WHETHER THE LATEST CARVING WHICH THE GERMAN AND RUSSIAN HIGH COMMANDS HAVE CARRIED OUT WILL BE FINAL.

If the new line of demarcation in Poland is final, the Nazis obtain the rich mining and manufacturing districts, while the Russian area will include the rich central plains of the Polish Ukraine and all the

UNHAPPY HISTORY

FOR the fourth time since the tenth century, when it emerged as a nation torn from the flank of the tottering Moravian Empire, Poland is to be partitioned.

The population of Poland today is 34,000,000 and the country covers 150,000 square miles.

Poland is a composite. Two-thirds of the land was taken from old Russia and nearly one-third from Germany and the former Austria-Hungary. A small slice came from Czechoslovakia in last year's partition of that country.

Poland's history as a kingdom began in 965 A.D. under the reign of Mieszko, whose great-grandfather had wrested its beginnings.

History By Dates

- A chronological history follows:
- 965—Poland organized.
 - Feb. 17, 1772—Russia, Prussia, and Austria sign first partition treaty stripping Poland of one-fourth of its territory.
 - Sept. 23, 1793—In second partition, Russia and Prussia cut Poland to one-third of original size with 3,500,000 population.
 - March, 1794—Kosciusko becomes Polish dictator; recovers lost lands.
 - 1795—Nation obliterated by final partition between Russia, Prussia, and Austria.
 - 1807—Napoleon establishes Duchy of Warsaw.
 - 1813—Reemergence of Napoleon's forces obliterated the Duchy.
 - June 3, 1917—Allied governments back independent, united Poland.
 - Oct. 16, 1918—"Free and reunited Polish State" announced.
 - Nov. 3, 1918—Cabinet proclaims Polish Republic.
 - Nov. 12, 1918—Joseph Pilsudski becomes Government head.
 - June 28, 1919—Treaty of Versailles gives Poland larger part of Posen (Poznan) and part of East Prussia; Danzig made Free City under protection of League of Nations and within Polish customs system.
 - 1920-21-22-23—Frontier problems settled and Polish borders finally defined.
 - Jan. 26, 1934—Germany and Poland sign 10-year non-aggression pact.
 - May 8, 1934—Polish-Russian treaty extended to 1945.
 - March 31, 1938—France and Great Britain pledge aid to Poland if it considers its independence threatened and resists.

Dr. J. B. Mackie, M.B., Ch.B., D.S.M., has been promoted from the rank of Surgeon, Lieutenant, to Surgeon Lieutenant, Commander in the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force.

The German High Command to-day announced that fighting continues around Warsaw, but in the south Germany has won the battle for Tomaszow, 50 miles north-west of Lwow.

HALF FOR RUSSIA

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—An official announcement here to-day on the division of Poland between Germany and Russia shows that Russia is to get nearly half of Poland. It is stated that the two countries have agreed on the line of demarcation between their armies.

Warsaw itself is to be divided by the River Vistula, and the larger and more important part, which is on the left, or west bank, is thus in the German-Soviet "carve-up." This goes to Germany.

The part of the city on the right, or the east bank of the Vistula—which presumably goes to the Soviet—is about half the size, and is known as the suburb of Praga.

Herr Himmler, chief of the Nazi secret police, accompanied by his staff, has arrived at Gdynia, which is now renamed Gdinhafen, says a wireless broadcast from Berlin.

Troops Withdrawing

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The German police are replacing troops behind the lines in the occupied territory of Poland.

The police have been given the task of "cleaning up," according to the Nazi news agency.

They have had several fights with "insurgents and franc-tireurs," who were "trying to create disturbances."

The Germans admit that several police have been killed and say that their attackers were shot.

Fighting Continues

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Reports from Budapest state that furious fighting is continuing in Poland.

The Poles are still holding out in Warsaw, near Gdynia, and at several points between the Bug and Vistula rivers, and at Modlin.

Red Reinforcements

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The Red Army is reinforcing troops in the occupied areas of Poland.

At Lwow, according to a Soviet communique, Russian troops are disarming Polish soldiers.

The Russians admit that groups of Polish troops are still holding out in the occupied territory.

Meanwhile, the Russians are engaged in "mopping-up" and Sovietizing the occupied portions of the country.

The propaganda drive is increasing, and pictures of Stalin are now appearing in Polish villages where the Russians say that life has returned to normal.

Telephone communication with the Russian Ukraine has been re-established.

Soviet troops are now on the Lithuanian borders. Following their assurance to Lithuania on Thursday, they have now assured Rumania of their strict neutrality.

Joint Control

BUDAPEST, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—It is announced that Germany and Hungary are establishing a joint control on the Hungarian-Polish frontier at Volovec, in the former province of Ruthenia.

Navy in Polish Waters

MOSCOW, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The Soviet Press reported for the first time to-day that the "Diaper River" PLEASE Turn To Page 4.

TAKING NO CHANCES

Holland, Belgium Flood Their Lowlands

PARIS, Sept. 22 (UP).—Holland and Belgium met the menace of German troops and airplane concentrations at Aix La Chapelle to-day by partial flooding of their main defence systems, provoking a wide water barrier in which they place more faith to avoid invasion than in international pacts.

The two operations were simultaneous, but costly, because the sea water used for flooding covers 100 square miles of rich farmland and the villages were evacuated long ago for emergency purposes.

The voluntary opening of the dykes is intended to increase the security in view of the increased concentration of German troops in the west and was not dictated by any actual direct menace of invasion.

Defences Strengthened

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The Netherlands military authorities are strengthening their eastern frontier.

Here the defences consist of three lines of works, chiefly of a light nature.

It is considered they will present a greater hindrance than mined bridges or trees across the roads.

Road signs have been removed in the vicinity of the German frontier. The north and central parts can be flooded in a case of emergency, but in the south this is impossible.

Large reservoirs are being constructed to hold the water, which could be released if the country was invaded.

Aachen Evacuation

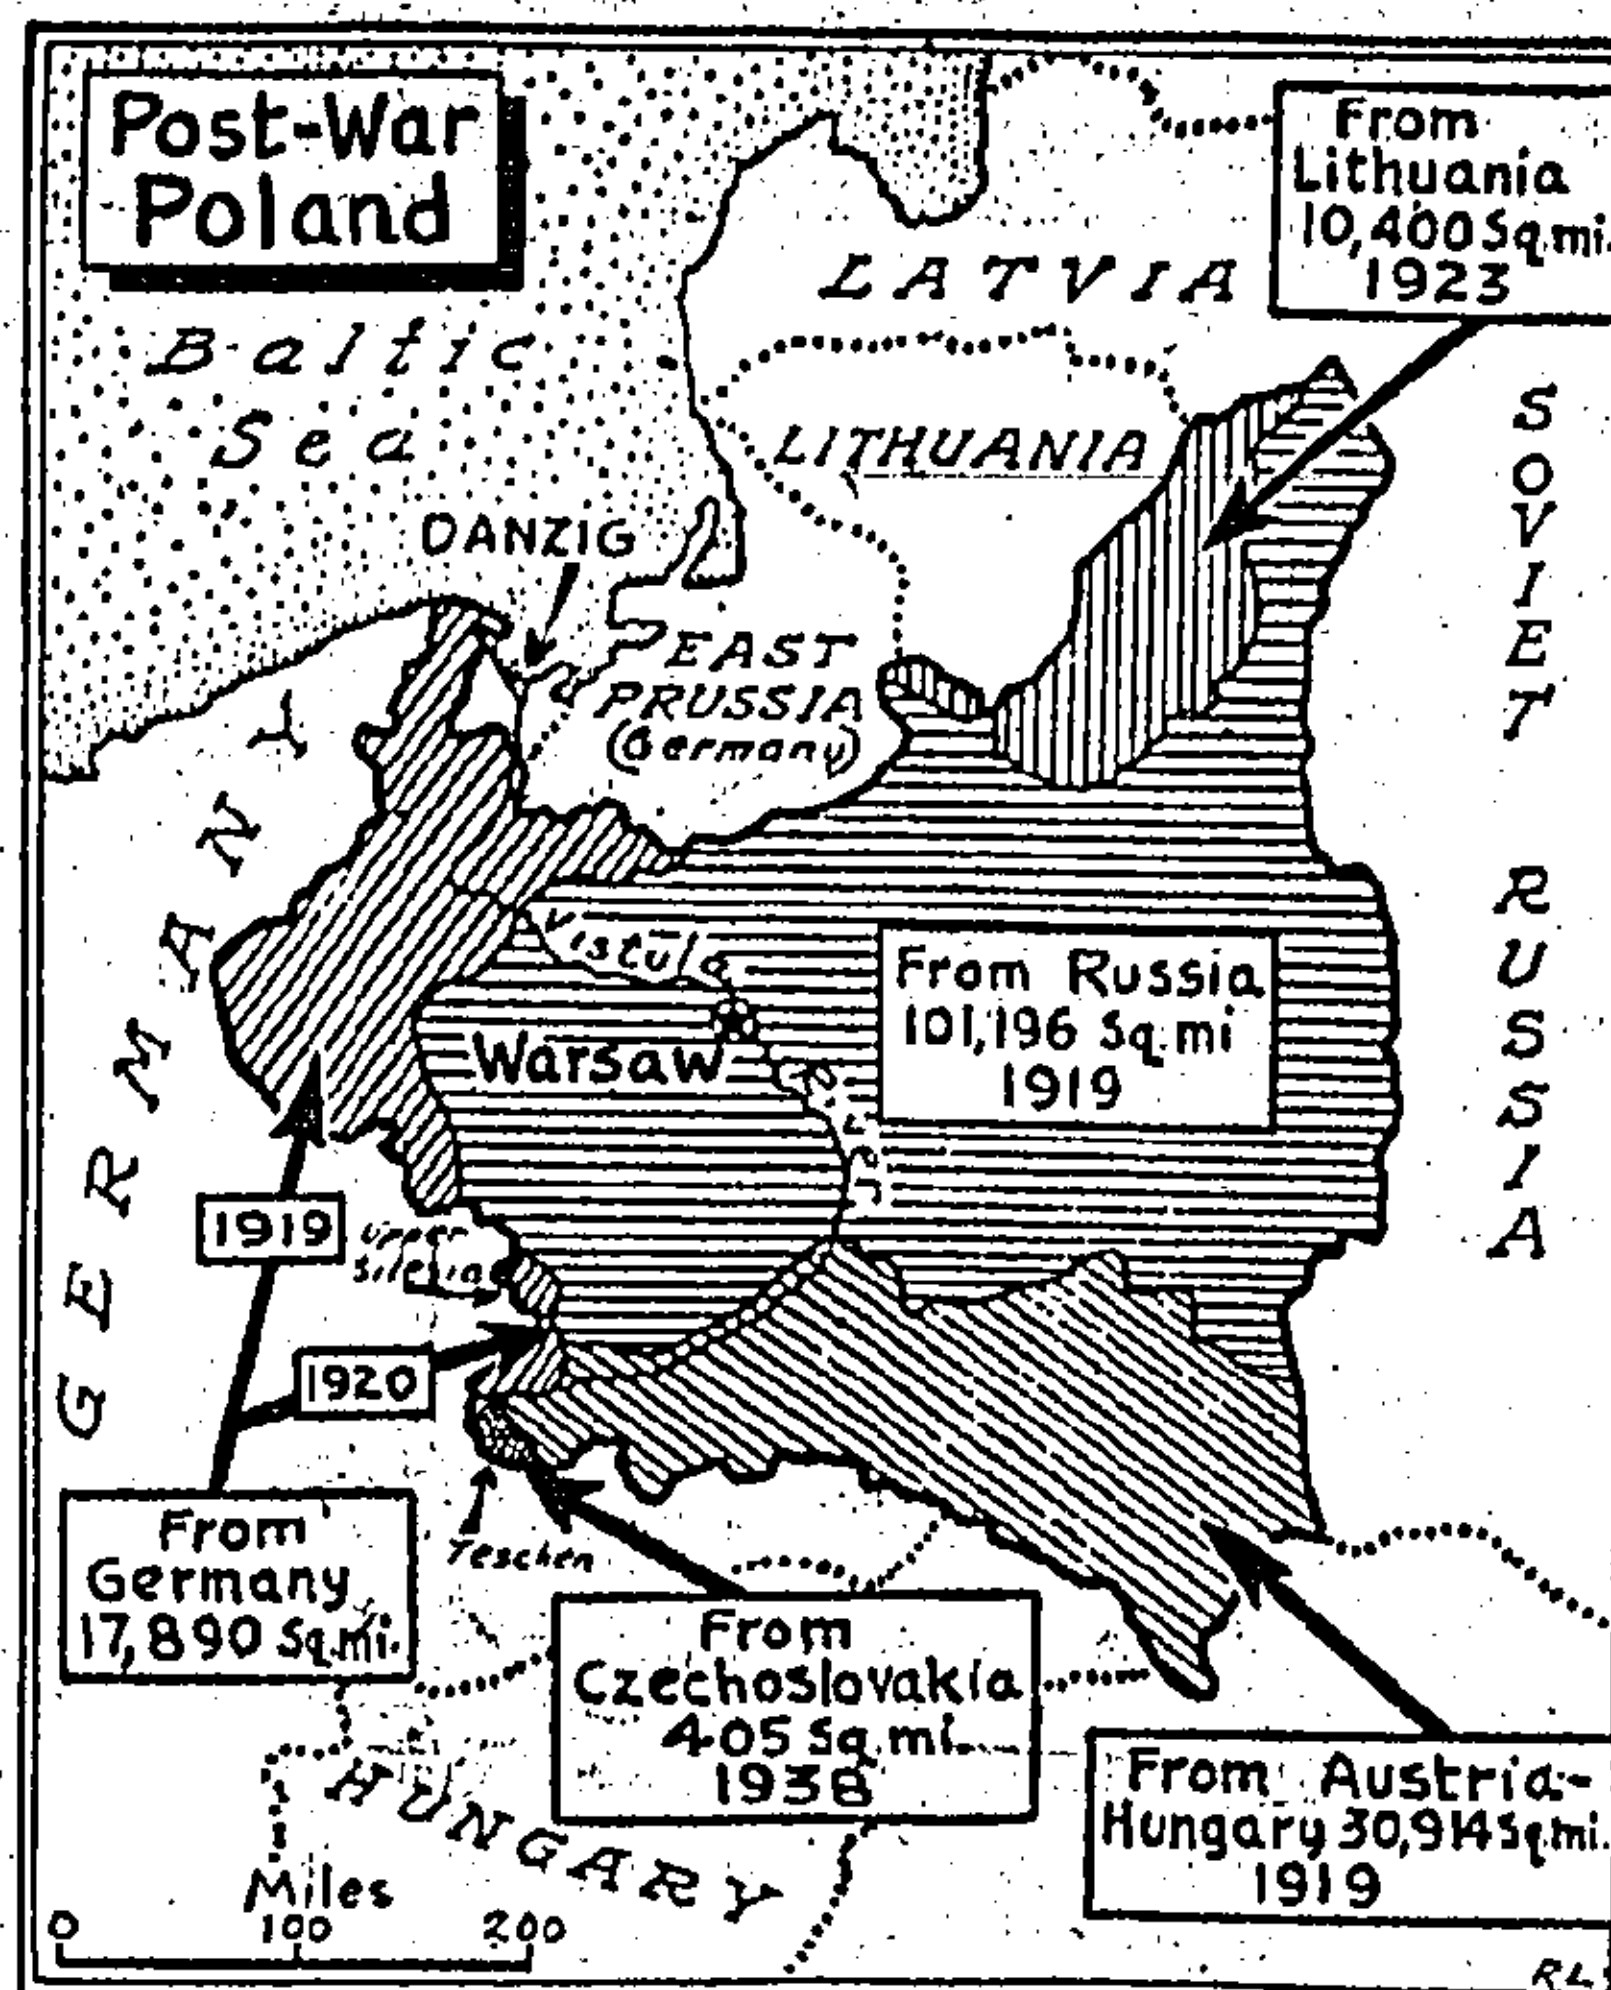

BRUSSELS, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—A correspondent of the Brussels newspaper "L'Independence Belge" describes the pitiful scenes he witnessed at Aachen during evacuation from the area of civilians by the Nazi authorities.

Many of the older people were separated from their relatives by the police.

The same correspondent says that food is scarce in the Aachen area. Many families have little more to eat than soup made from potatoes and other vegetables.

Denial Disputed

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Despite a denial by the German Propaganda Ministry, both French and Belgian newspapers to-day asserted PLEASE Turn To Page 4.

How Poland Established Its 1939 Borders.

150,000 CASUALTIES

Germany's Price For Quick Victory

PARIS, Sept. 22 (UP).—Germany lost 150,000 dead and wounded and 600 planes and 600 pilots in the three weeks war in Poland, according to M. Jean Giraudoux, Chief of the Bureau of Information.

He compared the present war on the western front with 1914 when, he said, France lost most of her coal production, her iron ore, steel, textile and sugar industries in the first 20 days of the war.

"To-day, we are intact. The mobilization of men and resources is 100 per cent. perfect.

"The conquest of Poland does not compensate Germany for the loss of the Saar as an effective coal producing region."

Dr. A. W. Dawson-Grove, B.M., M.C., (Oxon), has been appointed to be Acting Surgeon Lieutenant in the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force.

U-BOAT CAMPAIGN

DRAMATIC RESCUE

Skipper Tells Of R.A.F. Feat

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Captain Schofield, skipper of the 4,900-ton freighter Kensington Court, which was sunk by a Nazi submarine in the Atlantic, told to-day how his crew were rescued by two flying-boats.

Captain Schofield said the submarine fired a shot near the vessel, and he promptly sent out an S.O.S. message.

Five more shots were fired and the crew took to the boats.

One of the boats capsized, throwing the men into the water, but the other boat pulled away.

They were only just in time, for just as they got clear there was a big explosion on board.

"A Great Moment"

Then they saw an R.A.F. plane, but Captain Schofield said he did not think the aircraft could do anything to help.

"It was a great moment, therefore," he continued, "when the flying-boat alighted on the water and began taxiing towards us."

"An officer stood on the wing of the plane and said he would take us on board. I told him there were 34 of us, and he replied that he would take 20, and the others could go by a second flying-boat which had now arrived."

"I never imagined we could be rescued this way."

The submarine was never nearer to us than a mile, and it gave absolutely no warning."

Queer Coincidence

The rescue was marked by a queer coincidence. The pilot on the second R.A.F. plane, a Flight-Lieutenant, picked up the third mate of the Kensington Court and found he had sailed with the latter in the course of a short apprenticeship he had had at sea.

They had served together, and curiously enough, it was "on the Vancouver City" which was torpedoed only a few days ago.

The R.A.F. officer said they were on patrol when they received the S.O.S. from the Kensington Court. "I had a damned good look round for the submarine," he stated. PLEASE Turn To Page 4.

BIG PUSH SOON ON SAAR FRONT

BRUSSELS, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—According to Belgian reports from Berlin, many Germans believe that the arrival of General von Brauchitsch on the Western Front will be followed shortly by a big German push.

Carol Strikes Back

400 Nazis Said Executed

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

BUCHAREST, Sept. 22 (UP).—King Carol of Rumania, acting on the Government's powers of military dictatorship, to-day struck a series of powerful blows at the remnants of the Nazi Iron Guard as reparation for the assassination of M. Calinescu.

Unconfirmed reports state that about 400 members of the Iron Guard have been executed throughout the country. Official reports admit that only 13 have been either executed or killed trying to escape.

Concentration camps throughout the country are crowded with terrorists and suspects and the police are continuing their raids in many cities.

Bodies As Warning

The bodies of nine of the Premier's assassins to-day lay in pools of blood in the main street here to-day, as a ghastly warning to terrorists. Three other assassins were executed by a firing squad at a hamlet called Adjudanciu, while yet another was killed trying to escape.

The quietness throughout Rumania has led the Government to believe that the assassins were a small group of men forming remnant of the outlawed Iron Guards, and that they might have acted without contact with other Iron Guard organisations.

Cabinet Statement

BUCHAREST, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—A statement issued by the new Rumanian Cabinet refers to the assassination of M. Calinescu.

The statement says that the whole country has been plunged into grief. Rumania is now under the complete control of the Government, and all is quiet.

Body Lies In State

BUCHAREST, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The body of M. Calinescu, the murdered Rumanian Premier, is lying in state in the Elizabeth Hospital.

M. Calinescu will be given a national funeral on Sunday.

Messages of sympathy received in Bucharest include those from Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Mr. Cordell Hull, and Herr von Ribbentrop.

ANTI-NAZI STATION SAYS: "DON'T FIGHT"

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The German "Freedom Station," after quoting from a soldier's letter declaring that on the Western Front enthusiasm for the war had been completely damped, gives a list of instructions to the German people.

"If you are a soldier, don't fight. If you are a workman, work slowly and inefficiently. If you are a peasant, don't give up the harvest; don't put money in the bank, and don't pay taxes."

The upper sketch shows that one of the new 150-foot bombers would have only a 50-50 chance of passing through the 'fence' without striking one of the lethal cables, which are so thin that they are invisible, both day and night. Contact with one of the cables would mean destruction for the bomber, as depicted in the lower sketch.

LONDON'S DEFENCE AGAINST ENEMY

LONDON.
Enemy planes which seek to rain bombs on London are going to have to devise some means of beating what appears to be the most effective air raid defence ever thrown around a world capital.

Realising that the sky will be one of the major battlegrounds of the next war the British air ministry perfected an intricate and strategic system to keep death-dealing bombers away from London.

The air ministry has encircled London with these balloons—or spotted them strategically over the city—thereby forming a death-dealing "fence" of cables stretching upward possibly as high as 25,000 feet.

The balloons will be raised and lowered on winches mounted on huge army trucks, thereby making it possible to shift their position on short notice. The cables attached to the balloons are so thin that they cannot be seen from an attacking airplane, even in broad daylight. Charged with electricity, they would be capable of disabling any plane that touches them.

Catsup, 12 Tons Of It, Spilled

TULARE, Cal.—If California's traffic laws made spreading catsup on the highways a serious offence, depending on the quantity used, some one here would have had a huge penalty to square. Joseph Goss turned his truck into another one being driven by William E. Long and the latter's entire load of 12 tons of catsup was spread over the neighbourhood.

Recently all eyes were cast upward in the Kilburn High Road when one of the steaming balloons in London's barrage scheme was raised from the confined space of a cinema car park. The resultant show of curiosity must have greatly pleased Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood, as the whole thing was planned in connection with his recruiting campaign for the barrage personnel.

Hoping to render London and its environs immune from air attacks Great Britain has devised a balloon barrage defence. The drawing above shows one possible defensive system—a line of 1,100 balloons, attached to lethal cables, and moored at 100-yard intervals encircling the city at a 10-mile radius from the centre. Another possibility is a "field of" barrage, consisting of hundreds of balloons stationed at strategic points within the city limits.

70-FOOT FALL TO DEATH

Climber Roped To Woman

WHILE roped to his woman companion a young man climbing the 2,500ft. mountain, An Cloch, in the Coolins, Skye, fell 70ft. and was killed.

He was Mr. Peter Reid, aged 27, of Dorking, and his companion was Dr. Barbara Raven, of the Ridge, Purley, Surrey.

Mr. Reid and Dr. Raven were on their first climbing expedition together.

They were negotiating a bad corner when Mr. Reid fell and the rope broke.

He landed on a shelf, where he lay until Dr. Raven reached him.

FIVE MILES FOR HELP
Having made him as comfortable as possible Dr. Raven went five miles to bring help. On her return with rescuers Mr. Reid was dead.

He was taken by a stretcher party to Glen Brittle house, where the climbers were staying.

Dr. Raven said that when she got down to the ledge Mr. Reid told her the reason for the fall must have been that his hands got numb and he lost his grip.

"My friend was roped to me and was going on before," she said. "I lost sight of him for a moment as he went round a buttress and just then I saw his body hurtle past and crash on to a ledge below me."

Mr. Edward Raven, former second secretary of the General Post Office, said to a reporter that his daughter and Mr. Reid were both very good climbers and had been in the district several days.

"My daughter and Mr. Reid were not engaged. They were merely climbing friends," he added.

Mr. Reid came from Georgetown, British Guiana.

MOTHER TRAVELLING
His mother and his two sisters are still in this country," said Mr. A. B. Drayton, the secretary of the Standard Life Assurance Company, by whom Mr. Reid was employed.

"I believe that they are at the moment travelling on holiday in Wales. They may not have heard the news yet, although I have wired to their Surrey home."

Mr. Reid was one of the leading chess players in England.

Baby For Widow Of Thetis Officer

Mrs. Conway Lloyd, widow of Lieut. Commander T. C. Conway Lloyd, captain of the submarine Trident, who lost his life in the Thetis disaster, recently gave birth to a daughter in a London nursing home.

Pretty Rochelle Hudson, who eloped to Ensenada, Mexico, to wed writer Hal Thompson. The marriage was a surprise to friends in Hollywood. The young star's mother knew nothing of their plans.

Told Girl He Had £23,000

SYDNEY ROBERT MILNE is 32 and a convincing talker. He met two young women at a Surbiton, Surrey, boarding-house, and impressed one of them by telling her he was a captain in the Indian Army with a fortune of £23,000 and a pension of £22 to £25 a week.

He also mentioned that when his mother died he would get a further £10,000, of which his bride would have half. Then, going to Eastbourne, he met her father—and stole £100 ring from the bedroom of Miss Alice Horsnell.

Next he called on a firm of auctioneers and estate agents saying he was looking for a business. While "observing" a suitable business he stole the written findings of £20.

From another estate agent he obtained an "order to view" an occupied house, then stole £4 from it. About this time police circulated his description to estate agents, and when he called on one he was identified and arrested.

Recently he was sentenced at London Sessions to three years' penal servitude. He pleaded guilty, and asked that 12 other cases be taken into consideration. He had eight previous convictions, and was released from his last sentence on March 10.

Strange Mission of A "Yard" Visitor

INQUIRIES were being made in London and Yorkshire recently regarding the movements of a young man who, after flying in a private plane from Yorkshire to Brooklands, drove to Scotland Yard in a car and asked for an interview with Sir Philip Game, the Commissioner.

It is understood he wished to put before the authorities a scheme he had for the employment of ex-convicts.

While at the Yard the young man appeared to be ill and police arranged for his removal to hospital. His parents were communicated with.

AERODROME VISIT
According to messages from Yorkshire the young man presented himself to a Service aerodrome and declared it essential that he should get to Scotland Yard without delay.

After he had been entertained at the officers' mess and had made a number of calls by phone a suggestion was put forward that in view of the urgency of the mission the man should have a Service plane for the journey.

This proposal was vetoed by the commanding officer of the air station. A private plane was hired. At the last moment a flight lieutenant offered to accompany the journey to London and the two men flew to Brooklands in the plane.

POLICE CAR REQUEST
From the Surrey aerodrome a call was put through to Scotland Yard stressing the urgency of the mission and asking for a police car and chauffeur for the journey to London. Scotland Yard chiefs explained that it was not possible to send a car for such a purpose.

Some time later the young man and the flight lieutenant, having hired a car at Brooklands, arrived at the Yard. It was during this interview that the young man was taken ill.

Mae West Joins Oxford Group

New York.
MAE WEST is the latest recruit to Dr. Frank Buchman's Oxford Group Movement—the teachers of "moral rearmament."

Dressed in a pink negligee, she received Dr. Buchman recently, and told him that his philosophy is such a great help and inspiration to her that she wants to enrol comedian W. C. Fields in the movement too.

Afterwards she was very eager to tell everyone about it—"It's the most wonderful thing," she said. "Actually I've been practising its philosophy in recent years and I owe my success to it."

"SPLENDID CHARACTER"

"Earlier in my career, before I discovered the importance of correct thinking, I told Dr. Buchman to tell him all about it."

Dr. Buchman told her in their talk, "You are a splendid character. You have done wonderful work, too, in pleasing and entertaining millions with your charming personality."

The Yard. It was during this interview that the young man was taken ill.

Machine-Gunned By Japanese

That a Japanese trawler had machine-gunned his junk was the report made to the Police by Chan Cheung Wah, master of fishing junk No. 4322HA.

Chan reports that at 8 a.m. on September 22 his junk was at Tam Kiu Shan in Chinese waters. A Japanese trawler hove to and opened fire with machine guns. One of the crew, Ng Ah Chai, was wounded in the right arm. The junk was boarded and the crew of eleven were forced into sampans and told to row away. Before leaving the scene, they saw the Japanese set fire to their junk.

Later, the crew were picked up by another junk and brought to Aberdeen. The wounded man was taken to the Queen Mary Hospital.

Fishermen Ask for Protection

In view of the increasing number of fishing junks attacked by Japanese warships, the Chinese Fishermen's Guild has submitted another petition to the Hongkong Government asking for adequate protection.

It is estimated that more than fifty fishing junks have been destroyed by the Japanese since the end of August. This figure does not include those which have not been reported to the Guild.

Junk Confiscated

Wong Tam, master of fishing junk No. F8364, reports to the Police that at 5.10 p.m. on August 11, when his junk was anchored at Nam King Shan, in Chinese waters, a Japanese trawler came alongside. The junk crew were then ashore.

Several Japanese boarded the junk and towed her away.

On August 21, Wong Tam found his junk at Lung Yuet. Several articles of clothing and the junk license were missing.

Messages To Ships To Cost More

Government Gazette notification published this morning intimates a further rise in the rates for radio messages to ships from the Government Radio Office, Hongkong.

In March the rate per word for messages to ships registered in Hongkong or the United Kingdom was 35 cents. Later, in July the figure was increased to 60 cents per word. The rate has now been raised still further to 70 cents per word.

The rate per word for messages to ships not registered in the United Kingdom or Hongkong which was 55 cents in March and raised to 60 cents in July, is now raised to 65 cents.

The reception fee of 40 cents per word demanded in March for all such messages, and raised to 45 cents in July, has now been raised to 55 cents. This fee is payable in addition to the other rate.

Firms Dismiss Employees

Appeal Against "War Economy"

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—A warning that too many workers had been dismissed, and an appeal to employers to refrain from dismissal was broadcast by Sir Samuel Hoare, the Home Secretary to-day.

He urged employers to get back the dismissed men who would be wanted "before the world is much older."

He said that he was certain that at no distant date there would be a shortage of able-bodied men or women whose services the country wouldn't need.

Sir Samuel said that the budget next week would make all economies, but that did not mean refusing to buy anything.

"Go on buying, but buy prudently, and when you sell, avoid price-cutting as you would the plague. We must have no misers, no hoarders, and no profiteers," declared the Home Secretary.

More Men Working

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The effect of the war on unemployment is shown in figures issued to-night. Unemployed men at the week ending September 7 were 76,000 less than on August 14.

Unemployed women, however, showed an increase of 175,000 because many of them had left the industrial areas.

Labour's Criticism

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—"Reuter" understands that Mr. Leslie Brown, Supply Minister, is giving full consideration to the criticism of the position of labour in relation to supply questions.

There is no intention to bar industrial labour advisers from the production side, as Mr. Burgin regards the co-operation of organised labour in all sections of supply, as essential to its success.

Harbour Main To Be Lifted

On Tuesday, according to a Harbour Department notification, pipe lifting will be carried out by a crane lighter, and divers will work from diving punts within an area bounded by lines from Queen's Pier to latitude 22.17.12, north longitude 114.0.41 east and latitude 22.17.15, north longitude 114.0.38 east.

These positions will be marked by small cylindrical red buoys. The crane lighter will display by day a red flag and by night a green light over a white light. Foreigners Leave Warsaw
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BERLIN, Sept. 22 (UP).—Reports received here to-day state that foreigners are leaving the Polish capital.

The evacuation followed a radio broadcast from the German High Command urging them to do so.

About 300 foreigners left the stricken city. They were escorted by German officers and Foreign Office representatives.

Members of the diplomatic corps were taken in a motor car convoy, while the other foreigners were taken in three special trains to Konigsberg from Niesleek.

Warsaw Holds Out
LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Military operations in Poland to-day were mainly at Warsaw, where the suburb of Praga was submitted to heavy German artillery bombardment.

German infantry attacks were repulsed and the enemy driven back by the Poles.

The battle for Warsaw has not yet started, says a Berlin announcement.

The Lord Mayor of Warsaw in a radio talk to-day said that the Germans were continuing indiscriminate bombing.

Fast planes were also dropping propaganda leaflets.

Reds Replace Nazis
LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Soviet troops have replaced German troops in the Lwow district.

Red Army detachments have now occupied the Polish-Hungarian frontier opposite what was formerly Ruthenia.

No Surrender
LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—A renewed appeal by the German army for the bloodless surrender of Warsaw met with no reply from the gallant defenders of the Polish capital.

The Germans admit that the Poles are not only holding out, but have launched several counter-attacks.

In the Praga suburb of Warsaw the Poles have attacked many times in an effort to break through the German lines, and the Nazis claim that all attacks were repulsed.

Another broadcast by Colonel Lipinski, commander of the Warsaw garrison, said: "Our resistance is stiffening."

Meanwhile 178 members of foreign diplomatic missions, and 120 other foreigners have been safely evacuated from Warsaw by train.

Fifty-Fifty Line
MOSCOW, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—A joint German-Soviet communique announces that the German and Soviet governments have established the following demarcation line between the armies in Poland.

Along the River Pissa to the confluence of the River Narew, along the Narew to the confluence with the River Bug, along the Bug to the confluence with the River Vistula, along the Vistula to the mouth of the River San, and along the San to its source.

Pact Before War
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BERLIN, Sept. 22 (UP).—Apparently to offset any suggestion that the Nazis might have drawn back because of the Russian advance in Poland, the D.N.B. (German Official News Agency) to-day claims that the line of demarcation was agreed upon before the war started, so that it could be ready if "counter-measures" against the Poles became necessary.

"Germany's task was to destroy the Polish army with the quickest possible war, not to occupy as much territory as possible. This goal has been achieved. The line of demarcation again testifies to the limits of the German war aims, D.N.B. declares."

KEY POST MEN IN H.K.N.V.F.

Employers who consider that certain members of their staffs who have been mobilised for naval service are either key men in essential services or essential in other ways to business are to be given an opportunity to appeal. A tribunal will be set up for that purpose.

A statement from the Colonial Secretary's Department giving information in this connection was contained in this morning's "Government Gazette."

Under Proclamations by His Excellency the Governor on August 30 and September 4 (declares the statement) certain officers, warrant officers, and men of the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force have been mobilised for service. Further proclamations may be

RUMANIA'S WEALTH

"NAZIS ASSASSINATE PRO-FRENCH PREMIER." So the posters announced the murder of M. Calinescu, the Rumanian whom Hitler has vainly tried to crush.

Hitler wants Rumania, chiefly because of her oil, ignoring the fact that the main attraction is not hers to sell.

Nine-tenths of the capital invested in Rumanian oil is foreign, and only a fraction Rumanian. Nearly half of the total is Anglo-Dutch—controlled by Royal Dutch-Shell, whose capital is 60 per cent. Dutch owned, 40 per cent. British—and the remainder chiefly French and American. Italy also has a small share.

Germany has hitherto had none, but acquired prospecting rights under a recent agreement.

But although the companies are mostly foreign, the Rumanian Government controls the export of oil; and it has hitherto prevented Germany from securing more than 25 per cent. of Rumania's total oil exports. The remainder is sent to Italy, Britain, France and many other countries.

To Britain and France Rumania is not an important source of supply. Only 3 per cent. of Britain's oil imports in 1938 were provided by Rumania. To Italy, however, she is very much more important. Until recently as much as 50 per cent. of Italy's oil came from Rumania, although since the sanctions episode this proportion has fallen very considerably.

This map shows the disposition of Rumania's wealth. Oil, wheat, mines, industries and forests all send their products along the waters of the Danube.

EVEN in time of peace, therefore, Germany and Italy were very much more interested than the Western Democracies in securing Rumania's oil.

To-day, in time of war this would apply even more. Assuming that Britain maintains control of the seas and that Russia withholds her oil, Rumania's supplies would be quite indispensable for Hitler. For Britain and France it would be no less essential to deprive their opponent of these supplies.

In the last war the Rumanians were persuaded to destroy the oil wells before these fell to the Germans, and no doubt in any future conflict the same advice would be even more energetically proffered.

In this connection the situation of the oil wells on—

Germany's point of view—the wrong side of the formidable Carpathian mountains and the Transylvanian Alps is an immensely important factor.

Clearly, the basic question is how far Germany, by monopolising Rumania's oil, could supply all her needs. In spite of her oil-from-coal plants, Germany can still supply only one-third of her oil requirements.

In recent years Rumania's exports have been practically double Germany's imports. But last year Germany's imports rose to 4,272,000 tons while Rumania's exports fell to 4,500,000 tons, compared with 6,884,000 tons in 1936.

The fall in Rumania's exports is highly significant; for it is officially estimated that in five to seven years' time the known reserves of Rumanian oil will be exhausted.

It is estimated that Germany's war-time oil consumption is at least 15,000,000 tons.

In such circumstances, therefore, Rumania's supply is quite inadequate for German requirements.

M. CALINESCU

The Rumanian Premier, who was assassinated by Nazis yesterday.

fluctuate greatly according to the harvests in both countries.

But in a normal year Rumania's supplies, at least of wheat and maize, should go far to meet German import requirements.

Rumania is also an exporter of eggs, but not of other dairy produce. In fact, from an economic standpoint, the simultaneous German threat to Lithuania is entirely logical; for Lithuania's considerable butter surplus would supplement most valuably the resources of Czechoslovakia and Poland, neither of whom can appreciably ease Germany's shortage of this important commodity.

Germany does hope, however, to secure from Rumania an alternative to butter—vegetable oils. Since 1936 the great German chemical combine, I. G. Farben, has fostered the growth of soya beans in Rumania; whilst the new trade agreement lays special emphasis on the cultivation of oil seeds.

Apart from oil and cereals, Rumania's most important export is timber—a particularly vital commodity for Germany as a basis for synthetic textile fibres. Over 20 per cent. of the total area of the country is covered by forests.

These have been cut recklessly in the past, and provision is made in the new agreement for their scientific exploitation.

Finally, Rumania possesses very considerable mineral wealth quite apart from her oil. This has been little developed hitherto; but German companies could be set up to exploit pyrites in the Dobruja, chrome ore in the Banat, manganese ore in Bukovina, and bauxite generally with a view to the establishment of an aluminium industry.

GERMANY has for some years held the dominant position in Rumanian trade; and as a result of the annexation of Czechoslovakia her share has increased to no less than 56 per cent. of Rumania's imports and 34 per cent. of her exports. The conquest of Poland must still further increase Rumania's dependence upon Germany, even though it recognises Rumania's need for trade with other countries.

An "economic ultimatum" for a German monopoly of Rumanian exports and a suppression of Rumanian industries may never be actually delivered. But in practice Germany seems well on the way to securing acceptance of any terms it cares to make.

The flameless cigarette lighter that lights in the wind

A flaming match, or a gadget lighter can't beat a breeze.
Outdoor men know that. So stop fumbling, striking and cussing... take a flameless lighter along and you have a light instantly and always in any kind of weather. Just touch your cigarette to the lighter's tip... puff and a red glow lights it. Almost unbelievable... but try one and you'll never be without it.

No flame... no flint... no battery... no mechanism...
just take a second to fill it once outdoor lighter... but it's the most civilized indoor lighter,

too. Ladies please note.

Assassination

THE fuller significance of the assassination of M. Calinescu the Rumanian anti-Fascist Premier is not yet apparent, but it is doubtful whether the crime is an isolated example of youthful hotheadedness, unrelated to the European war now being waged on two fronts.

The Rumanian Government immediately classified the murder as a Nazi attempt to overthrow the legal regime preparatory to German extension of hostilities in the direction of Rumania. Equally quick have been the Nazis to contend that the crime was an attempt by Polish and British agents to create anti-Nazi venom in Rumania. Such anxiety to push the blame on to third parties indicates only too well that the murder bears very wide political motives outside the range of purely domestic affairs.

The Rumanian authorities have acted with exemplary promptness, and if the assassination was a serious attempt by the Nazis to effect a coup, it seems in the first place to have failed as diamally as did Hitler's abortive rising against Austria in 1934. The murder of Dr. Dollfus, the Austrian dictator, served only to cement anti-Nazi Austria. A similar reaction is certain in the case of Rumania, which, under the energetic leadership of King Carol, has learnt to regard Hitlerism with undisguised distrust and aversion.

No one will envy Rumania her position in Europe to-day. She has Soviet troops parading her north-eastern border, a decidedly pro-Nazi Hungary, eager for the return of lost territory in the north-west, and a cowed Slovakia, part of which has now been taken over by Hungary, fringing her in the north. Soviet-Russia has promised Rumania that she will respect her neutrality, but Russia has also demonstrated that she is an opportunist, and if certain exigencies arise, she may well attempt to regain territory which Rumania was awarded from Russia after the Great War.

Germany, of course, has long cast hungry eyes on the bountiful mineral and agricultural wealth of Rumania, and if she thought she could succeed in her quest, would probably display no hesitation in attempting subjugation of such desirable territory.

The assassination of Premier

HITLER broadcast at Danzig on Tuesday. He has been speaking to Germans for about 17 years. They know his speeches almost by heart.

He is the first orator ever to have led Germany, for her leaders up to now have been warriors, soldiers, not speakers.
Hitler's climb to power has been accomplished mainly by reason of his peculiar brand of oratory. He was a talker in a country where little price has been set upon talk. He could say the things they thought—and many things of which they had not thought—with a freedom and a violence they had never contemplated.

I HAVE heard him on the great occasions in such places as Saarbrücken, Nuremberg, and Berlin, and, though I have heard most of the leaders and orators from Lenin to Chamberlain, I have never heard one even remotely resembling Adolf Hitler.

He is the most menacing speaker on earth. I have seen people white and agitated with apprehension as they listened to him, yes, and German people.

It is not what he says which carries this menace—that seldom varies—but it is the assault and battery of his voice.
In its restrained tones that voice is strong, harsh, and splendidly masculine; but when he raises it to impress, as men do whose arguments do not carry conviction of themselves, it becomes intoned and raucous. It is then that the menace creeps in.

HE will make a simple statement quietly, on the thick crust of his deep voice; he will reiterate it in a rising, bellowing shout, and then, when you imagine that no throat could withstand an increase in vocal power, his voice rises to its

HITLER'S VOICE

ragged edges and he screams words in an almost indistinguishable stream—wild, strident, hysterical, as though he were warning the world that a planet is about to strike the earth and that the end of all has come.

In fact, he is probably saying nothing more important or dramatic than: "... we must work to fulfil our plans..."
But in that awful, ear-splitting, thought-shattering use of voice he makes it impossible for rational people to think clearly and weigh what he is saying.

His actual words no longer seem to matter once he forsakes the ordinary tones of speech; it is then only the shrieking voice which dominates everything.

IN the regular and periodic lapses to almost conversational tones which he uses to provide contrast and effect for these terrific crescendos with which he goads his audience (and himself), for no one knows the effect of the voice better than he does, you can hear the thick, crackling Austrian brogue shaping the words as they fall from his lips.

That brogue is not without its effect, either. A strong country accent is always more telling and more emotion-provoking than academic speech. More than one of Hitler's followers has changed his consonant sounds in conscious or unconscious imitation of the Leader.

THOSE who have listened to Hitler always hear the same one-man vocal orchestra; the same merciless use of voice, though some do not understand a word he says, still they are able to identify that tone of menace, that barking attack on the senses, which has enabled Adolf Hitler to drive Germans like a flock before him, and establish himself as Master of the Third Reich.

Last night's black-out was nothing new to me

by NOEL MONKS,

"Daily Express" war reporter, who has been in 150 air raids

I HAVE spent the greater part of the last two and a half years in ghost cities and TOWNS.

There was Abyssinia. Then Spain. At Tarragona, little Government port near Barcelona, I experienced my 150th air raid in eleven months. It was the closest call of all.

I shall never get used to air raids. They scare me stiff. They are the only things on earth that frighten me. I have yet to meet the man, woman, or child
they do not frighten.

IN Madrid, I have been in my bed, reading a book, with shells whistling past the hotel windows, but, honestly, I have not been scared.

At Valencia, Bilbao, Barcelona I have only had to hear the first dreadful note of the air raid sirens, and my heart felt has nearly choked me.

There is something about an air raid that is completely demoralising. And even when there is no raid on, the darkened streets give one the jitters.

Some people think it fun, creeping round London during the blackouts we are now experiencing at Home. But, believe me, it wasn't fun in Addis Ababa. And it was less funny still in Spain.

In Addis Ababa after dark the only lights on the so-called streets were the fiery, glittering eyes of the huge pariah dogs

Callinescu may well be the first move in that direction. The report that Germany has long been preparing for an uprising by the Nazi minority in Rumania cannot be discarded as an unrelated factor to Thursday's crime. The Iron Guards, as an organisation, have been far too disintegrated to be capable of anything like an organised coup without outside assistance. It is fairly obvious from where this has come, and it seems equally certain that Nazi Germany, having now embarked upon a full-dress war, eventually intends to try and conquer the rich lands of Rumania.

Thus the stage seems set for a further and undoubtedly serious expansion of the European conflict.

which used to prow noiselessly behind us in packs of six or a dozen.

They never attacked. They stopped when you stopped, moved on when you moved on. But their eyes used to bore through the pitch darkness right into your back.

In Franco Spain I found conditions similar—with Moors acting the part of the pariah dogs.

Burgos, Salamanca, Talavera, Sevilla, Algeciras... I stumbled my way round those lightless towns and cities night after night, falling over kerbstones, stepping into puddles, getting lost... In the old days those

All Bilbao's air raids were in daylight. The country was far too dangerous for night flying.
But the fear was there...
Guernica, greatest air raid of all,
is not included in this number...

I was always shy about carrying a flashlight, lest I be taken for a spy. Funny part was in the five months I was with Francisco I experienced only one air raid in a town behind the lines—at Talavera, dawn, December 10 last year.

WHEN I flew into Bilbao on April 19 there was an air raid on. We had to fly out to sea and hide in the clouds until it was over.

I stayed in Bilbao for five weeks. My diary shows that Francisco's German and Italian raiders came over 110 times in that period. They didn't always drop bombs.

Even deep down below in the refuge you could hear the roar of the airplane engines above.
And you just couldn't help feeling that a bomb was going to drop right on top of your head.

Then the sobbing of women and the whimpering of children as you are packed tight in the refuge unnerved you after a time.

I have stood in refuges for an hour at a time, barely able to shift from one foot to the other, so closely packed were we.

WHEN I returned from Spain to London, my first action was to walk to the window and draw the curtains before turning on the light. Instinct.

In Madrid you were taught to do that by rifle-fire. People who forget to shutter their windows at night suddenly found bullets crashing into their room. They usually only forgot once.

The Italians used bombs on Valencia and Barcelona that weigh more than a ton. In the last air raid I was in in Valencia a child's shattered body was picked up 200 yards from where a bomb had fallen among a group of workmen's homes. And there was a crater in the ground thirty yards across.

The bodies of six people known to be in one of the houses at the time were never recovered. Not even a particle of them.

IF THE KING SHOT THE PRIME MINISTER . . .

KING GEORGE the Sixth is the head of a great Democracy.

But . . . is the King a Democrat or a Dictator?

Some say that the King is merely a figurehead; others mutter that the Throne can still sway and dazzle even the obdurate Commons. Both views are right, and both are wrong, for the Royal Prerogative has done good service through the ages simply because no one has ever been able to define it.

This is the superb paradox of the Constitution—that the King of England may lawfully exercise powers to which Hitler or Mussolini dare not aspire even unlawfully.

The King may this afternoon disband the entire fighting forces of Great Britain, if he chooses. He may sell every ship and gun to the highest bidder. He alone may recruit for those forces; it is a Statutory offence for anyone else to do so.

In time of war, George the Sixth may lawfully enter anyone's property, and stay there until the war ends. He may even requisition that property.

EVEN in peace time the little short of constitutional. For instance, the King is empowered to turn every and any Parish into a University; the Duchy of Lancaster he may sell outright, lock, stock and barrel.

He is answerable to no man for what he does, and, in that sense, the King can indeed do no wrong. Historian Maitland affirmed that if the King were to shoot the Prime Minister and the entire Cabinet, in the middle of Piccadilly, and for no good reason, he could not lawfully be arrested or tried or punished for his crime. There is no court which may sit in judgment on the King.

King George would be well within his rights if he refused to sign any Bill submitted to him by the Government. Admittedly this particular branch of the Prerogative has not been exercised since the reign of Queen Anne, but Royal Powers do not grow obsolete in law—“Time never runs against the King,” as the jurists have it.

However, there are several snags to all this. To begin with, Parliament in the later Middle Ages insisted that certain orders issued through the Royal Prerogative be sealed, according to circumstances, by one of the two Seals of England—the Great and the Privy.

But these Seals have always remained in the custody of impartial and (presumably) incorruptible officers of the State. James the Second thought that by getting hold of the Great Seal, and throwing it into the Thames, he could suspend the Government of England; theoretically he was right.

...nothing would happen—in law, anyway. This article on the Royal Prerogative tells little known facts about what the King has a right to do; for example, he could sell the whole British Fleet to Hitler and pocket the money...

Even more of a check upon the King's power for good or evil is the fact that his Prerogative is to-day exercised with the advice and assent of his Ministers. It is unthinkable that His Majesty should issue vital commands without having first consulted Mr. Chamberlain, who, in turn, would certainly have to consult his Cabinet; and the Cabinet is answerable to the country and the Commons.

NEVERTHELESS, the King has the powers conferred upon him by the laws of England, and no man may lawfully hinder him from enjoying them, for the Constitution still works on the assumption that all power emanates from the Prerogative.

The King may sue any of us, but none of us may sue him. His motor cars are not bound to observe Police regulations, neither need they bear number plates. Royal telegrams take precedence over all others, and Royal letters do not have to be stamped. They are franked in the post.

King George may not rent a house, for by doing so he would demean himself into the position of a mesne tenant, and that, according to feudal custom, would be incompatible with his status as overlord of all his subjects.

By the same standards, the property of any subject who dies intestate, and without heirs, escheats to the King.

On his official incomes the King does not pay tax. His grandfather and grandmother did so, but merely because the tax was in those days considered intolerable, and the sovereign felt it would be setting a good example if the official incomes were taxed.

BUT the King must pay all customary dues on his personal belongings and estates. He also pays for his seats when he visits a theatre, and nearly always goes as a private gentleman. Upon such occasions it is unlawful for anyone to advertise that the King will attend such and such a theatre.

The King may demand that the National Anthem shall not

A Lay Sermon

SOME would deride this woman's faith on the ground that it was "unreasonable." It was manifestly absurd, they would say, for her to suppose there was healing power in the very garments Christ wore.

Reason, however, ought to convince us that unreasoning faith is perfectly reasonable. God works in response to faith, but we do not know how, and if only on that account we cannot delimit His power. This thought should help us to pray more boldly, more definitely. Too often the limits of our understanding are the limits of our faith, and consciously or unconsciously we frame our prayers so as to leave God, as it were, a way out of granting them.

Let us remember how little all our knowledge must seem when set beside the Absolute. Man at his highest can never do more than touch the hem of God's greatness, nor can all his taking thought increase his stature in this respect. But the faith which accepts unquestioningly is the faith which wins through to reward. And there are indescribable moments when, as it touches the Master's robe, it feels itself clasped by His hand.

be played, lest his identity be discovered, and his privacy marred.

King George may not vote. Even the humblest labourer on the Royal estates has his name inscribed on the polling list, but the Monarch's name does not appear. He is expected to remain aloof from politics.

The power of life and death now rests with the Home Secretary. Parliament has decreed that he alone shall remit death sentences. The wording of Royal pardons still remains: "We are graciously pleased to grant him (or her) Our free pardon."

The power of the King, in fact, is limited by custom to the expression of the Government's wishes. The power of the King in theory is undefined and vast, and doubly vast by its indefiniteness.

WALTER BAGEHOT, the historian, drew up a list of the startling things which Victoria might do through the Royal Prerogative. When she saw the list, Victoria exclaimed: "Oh, the wicked man to write such a story. My people would not believe him." So surprised was she by the might which the law lavished upon her.

But it is unlikely that King George will attempt to take his Prerogative out of cold storage. It is a tricky thing to toy with. An Hardy once remarked, it owes its success in practice to its inconsistency in principle.

Drug Saves Baby From Blindness

THE new drug "M and B 693," which has prevented thousands of deaths in pneumonia cases, has saved the sight of a child only 14 days old.

Soon after the birth, in a country house near London, doctors found that the baby had an eye infection, not uncommon with new-born infants, which usually causes permanent injury to the sight.

Every known treatment was given and failed. The baby was in danger of being half-blind for life.

Then one doctor suggested that the new drug, "M and B 693," introduced only a year ago, should be used.

A leading eye specialist was consulted and agreed that this was the only chance.

"This cure is of great importance, especially in so young a child," a medical expert, who has closely followed the case, said.

TALES ABOUT MINISTERS

A MINISTER was eccosted in a railway carriage by a reveller who said, "Ye think ye ken everything, minister, but I can tell ye twa things ye dinna ken."

"Very likely," said the minister frostily. "What are they?"

"Weel, I'm your cook's husband, and I'm wearing one of your shirts."

A minister was making a parochial visit and determined to make friends with the four-years-old son of the house. Pinching the little chap's fat knees playfully, he asked, "And who has got nice chubby legs?"

"Mummy," was the startling reply. A new pupil having been erected in the church, the minister and the bonnie were testing the acoustics.

"Stand you well at the back, Sandy, and see how this sounds," said the minister, repeating a text from the pulpit.

"Fine, minister, fine," said Sandy enthusiastically.

"Now, you go into the pulpit and I'll stand at the back," said the minister. "Just say anything you like."

Sandy, with great reluctance, at last went up into the pulpit,

Women Ringers To End Bells' Silence

THE bells of St. John's Church, Waterloo Road, silent for many years through scarcity of ringers, will soon peal again.

Women residents in the parish have determined to learn how to ring them.

A group of them approached the London County Council in June to ask that a course in campanology be given at the Friar Street Women's Institute, Waterloo Road.

The Council has granted their request, and the course will open next month.

"We expect between 15 and 20 students to register," said Mrs. Chilcott, head of the Institute.

Mrs. Pearce, of Adlington Street, wife of a cleaner, and Mrs. Regan, of Roupell Street, wife of a Covent Garden porter, said that each feels strong enough to tackle the biggest of the eight bells.

"Since the bells were specially rung for the Jubilee and Coronation," said Mrs. Pearce, "we have considered means of having them rung regularly, because they sounded so nice."

"We plan to work on a rota, and ring not only for Sunday services, but for weddings and all feast days. It is our aim to ring in Christmas and the New Year."

"Perhaps, my son, perhaps they do," said the minister. "But there is a vast difference between a 'congregation' and a 'collection'."

An absent-minded minister had begun giving out the notices when he found he had mislaid his notebook.

"I publish the banns of marriage," he faltered, "between—between—"

"Between the cushion and the Bible," said the deacon in a loud whisper.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

INFORMAL PORTRAITS

Use a portrait attachment to take informal portrait close-ups such as this with a box camera or fixed-focus folding model.

SUMMER is an ideal season for informal outdoor portraits of your family and friends, and informal portraits are about as easy to take as any other type of snapshot. Naturally, such informal shots are not to be compared with the work of skilled, experienced professional photographers... but, since you take them yourself for your own album, they do have unique personal interest.

Your informal portraits may show one, two, or several persons, grouped naturally—without stiffness. The subjects should fill most of the picture space; too much background is detrimental. Faces should be turned so that a good likeness is obtained—whether profile, three-quarter, or in between—but as a rule the subjects should not look directly at the camera.

Two types of lighting are acceptable. Direct sunlight from one side is all right, but straight-overhead lighting from the noon sun produces harsh, displeasing shadows. For a softer lighting, and better likeness, place the subjects in "open shade"—for example, at the edge of shade from a big tree, where they will receive light reflected from the sky, but no direct sun.

Informal portraits in direct sunlight require no increase in exposure. In open shade (not under trees or a porch) try an exposure of 1/25 second at f.8 lens opening. With a box camera or inexpensive folding type, use the smallest lens opening, and give a very short time exposure—about as fast as you can work the shutter—with the camera on a firm, solid support.

A focusing camera enables you to take reasonable close-ups without a lens attachment, as well as full-figure shots. You can also take full-figure shots and group shots with a box camera if it has a "two-point" focus setting, enabling you to get as near as five or six feet to the subject. But for real close-ups with the inexpensive camera, you will need a portrait attachment—a small supplementary lens that slips on over the regular camera lens. The attachment does not change the exposure.

Often, an informal portrait gains interest if the subject is busy with some everyday activity—for example, filling a tobacco pipe, if a man, or crocheting, if a woman. The action adds story quality—and tells more about the subject. Concealed action—such as conversation—adds unity to a group picture.

Make a collection of good, informal portraits of your friends and family. They'll justify a special section in your snapshot album.

The Christian Church in the World To-day

Essential Christianity, by Samuel Angus. New York: Macmillan.

FROM an unusually broad experience in widely-separated parts of earth the author of this book has gained a breadth of view not commonly found in typical religious writers of the day. At present professor of New Testament and Historical Theology in the University of Sydney, he counts among his experiences education in universities in Ireland, Germany, Scotland, and America. He has performed professorial duties at Columbia, Yale, and other American institutions. He is also author of several important volumes on various phases of religion. Out of this rich and deep experience he speaks with an understanding which is impressive, and a liberalism which is as refreshing as unusual.

Dr. Angus is a liberal in theology. He proclaims the necessity for individual thought and action in gaining the "mind of Christ" and in making the Christian spirit practical in a turbulent world society. He sees many failures of the Christian Church to interpret aright the sacred Scriptures and in consequence the failure of the Church to Christianize the world. The need is for unity in Christ. Christianity has been divisive to its own defeat.

In the new theology which is envisaged, the author holds that Christ (Jesus) will be approached as the solution to problems rather than as a problem himself. There will be less discussion and microscopic examination of the man Jesus, more gaining of the true understanding of his message; in the spirit, not in the letter, lies the solution of humanity's problems.

And he avers that the pertinent question for the Christian is not, "Is my theology the same as that of Nicea or Chalcedon?" of the Tridontine Council or the Westminster Assembly? or Would my theological opinions and convictions command a majority vote in an ecclesiastical court? His concern would rather be What would the Church and the World be like if all Christians were like me? This challenge properly carried out brings the seeker face with the practical value of his own religious concepts. It sets him evaluating his own position in the Christian World.

Dr. Angus conceives that God's revelations to man are continuous. As God spoke through His Son, so He speaks to-day in the great moral issues which face the world. Adherence to an enforced and superficial uniformity, the negation of spiritual freedom, has been another cause for the failure of Christianity to do the works performed and proclaimed by its Founder. Such rigid adherence to dogmas and set rituals requires an ecclesiastical bureaucracy to enforce it, and as a result a situation arises which leads to the strangulation of the very purpose the Church was founded to protect. Unity is an essential of Christianity, but the unity must be upon the few fundamentals demanded by Jesus—the fundamentals which are requisite to the spiritual life of man and in the solution of the debatable problems upon which so much of theological energy has been expended.

In an appealing chapter on "Christianity and Creed," the author discusses and deprecates the tendency through the centuries to the formation of and adherence to hard and fast doctrinal statements which become crystallized into set dogmas. In the strict adherence to these historic creeds has been lost much of the very essence of Christianity—the spiritual insight and power which insure salvation. Examples of simple statements of faith and belief are given and the relation of faith to creed is discussed.

The book sets forth courageously the author's concept of the needs of the Christian Church to examine itself and to adopt reforms in worship which he regards as essential to the success of Christianity. It is worthy of the careful attention of those who would understand the problems of the day in terms of humanity's needs. "Essential Christianity" is an experience of life, the life of God in the souls of men." Here is a liberalism which neither goes over to the humanism of the day nor abandons strict adherence, but without dogma, to the teachings of the Founder of Christianity.

The Book Window

A Key to York, by Rosalie Slocum and Ann Todd (Harper), is a guide that answers almost any question on "East side, West side, all around the town," being the door to "the many free things to do and, when there is a charge, those that are most worth the money" in a vast and varied city. There is even a whole sheet of spots where you can just stand still and get a superb or fascinating view.

Chang Kai-shek, by Hollington K. Tong (Shanghai: The China Publishing Company, 2 volumes), clearly illustrates the advantages and the problems of "official" biography but presents one of the most detailed studies in English of the Chinese Generalissimo, including the official account of his capture and release in the "Sian affair."

A Satchel Guide to Europe, by William Day Crockett and Sarah Gates Crockett (Houghton Mifflin), Fifty-fourth edition, revised; enlarged in 1934 from the forty-third annual edition of William J. Rolfe.

Hawaii, by Sydney A. Clark (Penguin-Hall). For the traveler who wants to know what to do.

The International Yearbook

The New International Yearbook, edited by Frank H. Vizetelly and Charles Earle Funk. New York: Funk & Wagnalls.

A MID the many attempts to devise new forms of yearbooks, it is pleasant to have that time of year come round when the New International Yearbook makes its appearance. It has long occupied a space among the indispensables on any serious reference shelf. And this year's contribution will be no exception to the rule.

The editors have made no change in the already-proved methods of compilation. The pressure of news events has necessitated some compression to provide the added space needed for the elaboration of those departments which deal with diplomatic and political developments. But almost without exception, classifications of more technical than general interest have been sacrificed. The result is a good balance without loss of comprehensiveness, permitting, for example, the devotion of 11 pages to the history of Czechoslovakia during the days of Munich.

It may be argued by some proponents of the newer style in yearbooks that the International lacks interpretation. Certainly the record of Munich accord is given without either heat or assessment of blame. Such interpretation as there may be resides essentially in the selection of detail and in the decision as to what quotations from texts and speeches are to be included.

But research workers who use yearbooks for their primary purpose—which is for factual information—will appreciate the International's presentation of the record without an attempt to read too much of historical judgment into it. Moreover, it is pleasant to find at least one remaining yearbook which is free from tendentious adverbs and meaningless adjectives.

Although Dr. Vizetelly's passing last year is recorded, his name is continued as one of the editors of the volume. As his co-workers point out, the plan and organization of the yearbook was so fully developed by Dr. Vizetelly that the editorial problem was essentially the carrying of these plans to completion. A number of new contributors have been added this year, and sports and architecture are included among the expanded classifications.

Motorists Say Army Ray Is Stopping Cars

COMPLAINTS that private cars are being stopped by "invisible rays" on country roads near Colchester, Droitwich, and Lewes, were recently made to the War Office.

In each case the motorists explain that after a halt of about ten minutes, during which the engine refused to start, a soldier of the Royal Engineers has appeared from behind cover and told them to drive on.

Many "invisible rays" which inventors claim will stop motor-car and aeroplane engines, have been submitted to the War Office and Air Ministry during the past five years.
Few of the inventions, however, have been effective at more than 20 yards range. Others with longer range have proved too costly even for war.
The first report came from Colchester when a motorist stated that his car stopped suddenly on a country road and could not be restarted. While he was examining the engine a soldier of the Royal Engineers came from behind the hedge and said, "O.K.—you can go ahead now."
The War Office pooh-poohed the complaint.
Since then complaints have been received from Droitwich and Lewes.

Features of the FRIGIDAIRE 1939 Cold Wall Models

Here's an added refinement that users will appreciate: a new Super Freezer Door which closes at a finger's touch, but, most important of all, it opens all the way and stays open until you want it to close.

The New Quickcube Tray will find favour with everyone. It increases the capacity of the freezer for freezing desserts, salads and ice cubes; also for storage of bulky frozen articles and highly perishable foods.

Three in one. All three functions of the Cold Control, the Automatic Reset Defroster and the Master Switch are now controllable from a single dial which is known as the Frigidaire Uni-Matic Control.

Storage space for the extra ice cubes needed for parties is an added use for the Meat Tender. It holds all the cubes that can be frozen at one time, thus doubling the ice cube capacity of the refrigerator.

LOTUS "DORMEONE" SHOES are very old and tried favourites. They have two special features—the LOW HEEL and the "DORMEONE" STRAP.

The heel is only $\frac{1}{4}$ " high. This means that the weight of the body is thrown well back and a correct stance is enforced. Almost as good as the ideal—the barefoot stance.

The "DORMEONE" strap acts like a veritable extra ligament, bracing the arch of the foot constantly and taking away the strain of the low heel. It is adjustable both for position and tension. It permits a full day's golf without foot fatigue.

Germans Pleased At Treatment

London, Sept. 22. The Ministry of Information has stated that two more German settlements in Palestine have expressed their thanks to the British authorities for the consideration they have received.

The reported statement of thanks from the people who have been interned would seem to show the falsity of the statements that have been made over the German wireless that Germans in Palestine are being maltreated by the British.

The Ministry of Information also announces that a number of German officers arrived at the prison camp in England yesterday.—Reuter Bulletin.

RAMMED U-BOAT

Trawler's Success

London, Sept. 22. How a Grimsby trawler accidentally rammed and destroyed a U-boat was related by the Captain when the trawler arrived in port looking and with her propeller damaged.

Receiving a signal from a British warship that German submarine was in the vicinity he increased speed, whereupon there was a sudden crash lifting the trawler's bows into the air. A second and third crash followed amidships and astern with such force that the trawler was brought to a standstill, although the engines were still going full speed.

Directly astern of the sea was covered with bubbles and a quantity of oil, leading to the belief that a U-boat had been destroyed.—Reuter.

China Peace Talks Are Impossible

Chungking, Sept. 22. The lack of a mutually acceptable basis is pointed out in all competent circles as definite disproof of any Sino-Japanese peace talks at present, as rumoured.

The same circles also believe from a subjective viewpoint the likelihood of a Sino-Japanese armistice just as remote.

Although the dramatic changes in the European situation give rise to various sorts of speculation regarding the Far East, the persistent rumours in this respect are attributed to commercial motives on the part of certain quarters, presumably in Shanghai, who seek to manipulate the Chinese dollar, hoping to profit.

It is also pointed out that the Chinese Government strongly resents any peace proposals at the present moment when Mr. Wang Ching-wei is making an effort to establish a "Central Government" in Nanjing and is most desirous of peace in order to achieve his object.

The Chinese Government would never consider a peace offer in any event unless assured of freedom from encroachments, political and otherwise, because it must weigh the outcome of two years of resistance and bitter sacrifices involved. If the war does not bring gains it certainly should not leave the position worse than before.—United Press.

RUSSIA WANTS MORE AND MORE OF POLAND

Continuing their stubborn defence of Warsaw, the Polish troops have now been reinforced by three brigades of cavalry and other troops which succeeded in breaking through the German ring and entering the capital, which has again been bombarded by the Germans with severe civilian casualties.

Moscow reports that complete agreement has been reached between Germany and Russia regarding the partition of Poland. It is stated that the frontier will reach almost to Warsaw. The acceptance, according to Kaunas, was brought about under Russian pressure.

Hitler who has been inspecting the German troops on the Gdynia sector is expected on the Western Front to confer with the Chief of Staff on the Siegfried fortifications.

Berlin, Sept. 22. It is officially stated that the German and Soviet Governments have agreed to the demarcation line between the German and Soviet armies along the rivers Pilsa, Narew, Vistula and San.

Russia obtains nearly half of Poland, including Vilna, Brest Litovsk, Lublin and Lemberg.—United Press.

Soviet Demands Grow

Berlin, Sept. 22. The line of demarcation, on which the Soviet and German governments have agreed for partition of Poland, follows the rivers Pilsa, Narew, Vistula and San, according to the official news agency.

This means that the Soviet frontier, starting from Polish East Prussian frontier, 20 miles north of Novogrod, will extend as far west as Modlin, thence through Warsaw to the confluence of the Vistula and the San north of Sandomierz. It follows the San through Przemyśl, reaching the Hungarian frontier near Lupkow.

The Soviet will thus occupy the entire Polish-Rumanian and Polish-Ruthenian frontiers.—Reuter.

Hitler Inspects Army. Danzig, Sept. 21. Hitler inspected the Westernplatte this morning and reviewed the crew of the Schleswig Holstein which was tied up at the Westernplatte wharf. Thereafter, he toured Gdynia in a review of all the troops who participated in the capture of the city, visited the harbour and called at Coshov where he met Field Marshal Goering who is making a similar tour.

The official German News Agency, for the first time, refers to Gdynia as Golenhofen.—United Press.

Civilian Toll Heavy. London, Sept. 22. The radio from Warsaw broadcast at 1.30 p.m. that 700 civilians, mostly women and children, were killed by Wednesday's bombardment. The Soviet Embassy was gutted and several members of the personnel were injured.

In addition three cavalry brigades, two infantry divisions broke through from Kutsko and joined the Warsaw defenders, states the broadcast.

The military commentator said that up to Wednesday evening 87 German planes had been brought down in Warsaw. He added that at present raids made were by "rather poor" machines of various types, owing to the transfer of the bulk of the German air force to the western front.—United Press.

Battle Nears End

Berlin, Sept. 22. The German News Agency states that fighting continues between the Dazura River and bend of the Vistula. The wreckage of the defeated army shows that the great battle is approaching its end.

The Polish motorised equipment, guns and baggage, wagons, consist of a confused debris among bomb and shell holes. While burning houses collapse in nearby villages, the German infantry makes steady advance.—United Press.

Soviet Advance In South

London, Sept. 22. Interest in the Russian advance centres in Southern Poland between Kolomea, on the Rumanian border, and Przemyśl, focal point of the previous German ambitions.

It is significant that German bombers carefully avoided bombing the Lwow-Sanitary railway which runs into Rumania, obviously to keep an open road for Rumanian oil and wheat which the Russian advance apparently closes.—Reuter.

Big Advance Expected

London, Sept. 22. On the Western Front action on one side or the other is expected before long, especially as the French advance has revealed decided weaknesses in the Siegfried Line defences.

The captures of German prisoners have served to identify a large variety of troops already brought from Poland. Hitler is expected to issue a peace ultimatum when Warsaw falls, less in hope of acceptance by the Allies than to impress his own people and neutrals of his eminently pacific nature.—Reuter.

Big Push Anticipated

Paris, Sept. 22. Six million Frenchmen assigned to mechanised units and artillery continued an unending march eastward. British preparation are likewise reported to be progressing, while signs that Germany is preparing a big scale action are indicated. A communique states posts are facing each other.

Luxembourg reported an extension of the accumulation of German bombers at Aachen.

French despatches reported that the French advance positions between the Blies River and Bornbach have pressed forwards so that the outposts are now in sight of Zittelbrucken, within the main Siegfried fortifications.—United Press.

Grim German Relics

Paris, Sept. 22. According to reports, the French troops have reached the outskirts of Saarbrücken and a strongly fortified point of the Siegfried Line. The General Staff has not yet confirmed this, but it is known that the French have made advances in this sector which are commanded by their observation posts.

It is semi-officially stated that the French positions on the front each day acquire a strength of new solidity. German artillery continues to shell the French positions established in the hilly region in the south area.

All kinds of traps were set by the Germans when they retreated over the Saar heights before the French advances. For example, bombs were concealed beneath steel helmets apparently thrown away, mines which blew up when door handles were turned in a deserted villa, and stocks of poisoned food.—Reuter.

U.S. Neutrality

President Expected To Win

Washington, Sept. 22. A historic battle is looming in the Senate with President Roosevelt apparently holding considerable advantage.

The Chinese, Japanese, British and Polish Ambassadors were in the Strangers' Gallery when the President delivered his speech.

The President's words were so forceful that these have changed the sentiment which last Wednesday seemed to be against the Administration.

The President is facing the impending attack from the isolationist group by maintaining that any modification of his plan will constitute favouritism towards the aggressors.

Twenty-four members of the isolationist group met immediately after the President's speech.

Their spokesman, Senator La Follette, subsequently said that they intended to fight the President's proposals "from hell to breakfast time."

The isolationists met in Senator Hiram Johnson's office, in which, twenty years ago, nine Senators formed a coalition to fight American participation in the League of Nations.

Both Houses of Congress have adjourned until Monday.—United Press.

Japanese Expectation

Tokyo, Sept. 22. When the United States invokes the revised neutrality act on the basis of the cash and carry clause, Britain and Japan would benefit most, according to qualified observers.

They say that the United States would possibly exert "moral pressure" against Japan before it could place an arms embargo on Japan at the expiration of the 1911 Treaty of Commerce and Navigation in January, next year.

Informed quarters warn that America would probably continue to aid China in carrying out her self-imposed role of a "watch-dog" in the Orient for the Western Powers. These circles urge the Japanese to prepare against any developments in case of Japan-American relations becoming worse.—Donnel.

Hongkong's Most Effective Black-out

The most comprehensive and extended blackout yet staged in Hongkong was conducted last night. For the first time the Harbour was included in the total blackout programme, the port being closed from 8 p.m. to 9.45 p.m. Without the persuasion of the intense campaign with which they were favoured on the occasion of the previous blackout, all Colony residents co-operated efficiently and the outstanding success of the exercise was gratifying to the Air Raid Precautions Officer, Wing-Commander A. H. S. Steele-Perkins, and his co-operators.

The exercise began at sunset, a period of strictly reduced lighting being maintained until 9.15 p.m. At that time sirens throughout the Colony, in a fluctuating shriek, announced the approach of raiders and, in less than the three minute limit allowed, every light on land and sea was extinguished or concealed. At 9.35 p.m. navigation lights came out again on the harbour, but it was not until 1 o'clock this morning that the "raiders passed" signal was sounded and normal lighting could be resumed.

A.R.P. exercises were carried out in many places, while aircraft overhead combined the offices of observers and "raiders."

The warning that air raiders were approaching was received by Wing-Commander Steele-Perkins at precisely 9.14½ p.m. and he at once put his hand to a switch which set every siren in the Colony shrieking. At once such lights in houses, streets, and vehicles which had been dimmed since sunset were extinguished or entirely concealed and street lights pulled to the roadside. Red lights at each end of the tram showed their positions.

Ferry services ceased at 9 p.m. and were not resumed until 9.40 p.m. At 9.15 all harbour lights, including navigation lights, were extinguished; even sampans doing their riding lights.

From a high vantage point an observer watched the dramatic silencing of Hongkong's many thousand lights.

As two blue plane lights appeared high above, the sirens on Kowloon side began to wail. A wave of darkness seemed to flow over the mainland, the harbour was enveloped in gloom and soon scarcely any light other than the intermittent harbour shore lights were showing.

The island sirens took up the cry and every light on the Peak was covered as with one blanket. The quick response indicated a clear understanding of the A.R.P. requirements; at the climax to the exercise lights clearly discernible might have been counted on the fingers of one hand.

Telltale Cigarettes

In one thing, however, the Chinese public proved unco-operative. Instead of staying indoors—as they were asked, they crowded the streets, the parks, thick with them. How dangerous their presence in the streets might be, to the city as much as to themselves, was shown by the clarity with which the occasional cigarette stood out from above. Every glowing cigarette was a tell-tale, however slight.

Compensation for this small offence was contained in the success of the exercise on the harbour. During the period of intense darkness not even a sampan light was visible, a liner tied up at Kowloon Wharves being completely shrouded. Aircraft zoomed overhead and explosions and flashes from Kowloon side indicated where bombs were supposed to have fallen.

At 9.30 the Colony came to life again, but in shadowy fashion. No general signal was sounded, but police and air raid wardens quickly and swiftly informed vehicle owners that road traffic could be resumed, and soon cars and buses, with dimmed lights, were moving slowly through the streets. It was only then that many people who had attended 7 o'clock shows were able to return home.

4,000 People In Exercises

A.R.P. exercises on the ground began as soon as the warning sirens sounded. About 4,000 people took part, men and women.

Fire control exercises included the regular Fire Brigade and the new Auxiliary Service. While two units waited to attend to any real fires which might chance to break out in Kowloon and Hongkong, fire-fighting groups answered calls to "outbreaks" in eight places on the mainland and 12 places on the island. Everywhere they were required to man pumps and hoses and every operation was carried on until the whole group had been in efficient service for five minutes.

One unit was summoned to a fire in the Hongkong Hotel and soon had two deliveries working from the nearest hydrant. Another crew remained at the Central Fire Station coping with an incendiary bomb at roof level. Calls were answered by two crews of men fully rigged in breathing apparatus. One of these assembled at Gloucester Arcade, where an ambulance participated in the exercise and treated two "injured" persons.

In every instance the exercises were smoothly conducted, the men of the Auxiliary Service showing a quick grasp of their duties. Several prospective Auxiliary Service lady drivers were in attendance.

Decontamination Exercises. Decontamination exercises were held in Des Voeux Road and in Shanghai Street, Kowloon. The calls to these places were received from air raid wardens, who notified the nearest police stations that gas had been detected and that several civilians were affected. The Police immediately communicated with the nearest medical units, which despatch ambulances to the areas and the cases were brought to hospital for treatment.

With the approval of the Rev. N. V. Hallward, Colony Scout Commissioner, Boy Scouts simulated the gas victims, taking a realistic interest in their assignment.

In addition to duties connected with the A.R.P. exercises, Air Raid Wardens were on duty throughout the Colony, policing the observation of the lighting regulations. Wherever they pointed out to a resident or vehicle owner a light which contravened the regulations their advice was complied with.

A fleet of four aeroplanes appeared in the sky, carrying observers and at the same time simulating raiders. Several Verity lights were fired by these "raiders," signifying that they were in position to drop bombs. They were allowed to range freely from 9.15 to 9.35 p.m., but after that search-lights picked them out and pursued them relentlessly.

Voluntary Exercises. In addition to the general A.R.P. exercises several Hongkong firms, many of which have taken a keen interest in A.R.P. work, staged exercises of their own—with the approval of Wing-Commander Steele-Perkins. The Hongkong and Kowloon Godown Company set its own A.R.P. corps in action against an "outbreak" of fire on its own premises.

Decontamination Work. Near the depot of the Hongkong Tramway Company in Russell Street the company's own squad of 10 men set to work decontaminating the trams and buses, clearing them of mustard fluid.

Encumbered by their special uniforms and respirators and working in the dim light, they carried out their exercises in a thorough and efficient manner, signifying the excellence of the training they have received from Mr. G. S. Rodger.

A white circle in the street marked the "bomb crater" and oil and petrol was generously sprinkled over the areas contaminated by mustard gas.

While six men used bleaching powder to nullify the effects of the gas, four others ably attended to a casualty lying nearby. After shovelling away the debris and the tin-can "bomb" the squad brought a fire hose into play to wash away any remaining gas.

After doing their respective jobs, the squad returned to their quarters, where they were undressed under proper war conditions and by specially appointed men. The squad re-dressed in a genuine gas and splinter-proof chamber capable of holding approximately 200 people and containing the latest sanitary system.

A tower wagon was sent out to re-adjust an imaginary defect on a PLEASE Turn To Page 5.

London, Sept. 21.

TEE FOR ONE

"Jackson, old boy, congratulate me. Kindly slap me on the back."
"Certainly, my dear fellow, but may I ask you why? You haven't got engaged, I hope?"

"No, no. This is something really important. I did the fourteenth in one yesterday. A blow in a million! The swiftest to end all swiftest!"

"But I don't understand. You look as fit as the proverbial Stradivarius. Were there no celebrations?"

"Celebrations? There's been nothing like it since the Relief of Mafeking."

U.M. Omar Brilliant As Skip For The Winners: C.M. Sequeira Unlucky

Shanghai, Sept. 17.
WITH victory in the first lawn bowls interport almost within their grasp, Shanghai made a last-minute miscalculation to deliver the honours to Hongkong who triumphed by 18-17 after the local side were ahead by 17-16 on the 20th end of the interport encounter taking place on the Police Recreation Club green yesterday. The Shanghai skip had the misfortune to dislodge his own wood with the last delivery of the game, thus giving Hongkong two shots as the visiting team were lying first and third. Had Shanghai bowled short with this last wood, a tie of 17-17 would have resulted and another end would have been required to gain a decision.

It was one of those unfortunate twists of fate however, for, had the Shanghai skip succeeded in his intention of carrying the jack to his backwoods, a victory would have been certain for Shanghai and he would have been the hero of the day.

The match was an uphill fight almost all the way for the local side as the Colony players held the lead for the major portion of the game and it was not until the 19th and 20th ends that Shanghai came into their own again to be ahead of their opponents. At one point, things did not look too rosy for the local four as they trailed by 3-12 on the 10th end. The two teams were as follows:—
Hongkong:—U. M. Omar (skip), A. J. Hall (No. 3), B. W. Bradbury (No. 2), G. Duncan (No. 1).
Shanghai:—C. M. Sequeira (skip), F. O. Madar (No. 3), S. S. Wilkinson (No. 2), A. A. d'Almeida (No. 1).

HEAVY GREEN
The intermittent rain yesterday had the effect of producing a heavy green which was to the liking of the Hongkong players as the pace was almost similar to that which they encountered on the Colony greens.

Omar was once again in the limelight for the visitors, and though his usually unerring drives did not wreak as much havoc as on former occasions, he still turned in some rare performances and on no less than three occasions he won the head single-handed. Excellent support was rendered by Bradbury who displayed his best form yesterday out of the four matches that he has played locally. Leading off for Hongkong, Duncan gave the Shanghai players a great amount of trouble as he placed his shots right on the jack almost invariably.

Sequeira was the backbone of Shanghai's side, his splendid work as skip taking his team out of many awkward situations. Time after time when the lie of the woods was against him, he would take out a wood to lie one or two, or else he would draw right on the jack.

Steady play marked Wilkinson. No. 2 for the local four, as one of the outstanding players of the afternoon, he worked hard in glove with his skip and even in the most difficult situations he was able to carry out Sequeira's intentions.

REMARKABLE PLAY
Even though the conditions were in favour of the visitors, it did not deter the local team from taking the lead by 4-3 on the fifth end. Some remarkable playing on the sixth end by Omar netted a double for the southerners, however, to put the visitors up by 5-4, a supremacy which they never relinquished until the 10th end.

'Lucky Bradbury' Is Delighted!

Shanghai, Sept. 17.
"Naturally I am delighted with Hongkong's performance in winning this interport match, though the ending must seem rather unfortunate for Shanghai, losing by a single shot," Mr. B. W. Bradbury, captain and manager of the triumphant Hongkong Lawn Bowls Interport Team, stated yesterday while still wearing the flush of victory to a representative of "The Shanghai Sunday Times" soon after the Hongkong side had defeated Shanghai by 18-17.

"I must say that our opponents played remarkably well under the existing conditions. The rain certainly played the match into our hands as to-day's heavy green is somewhat similar to greens in Hongkong with which we are familiar," continued Mr. Bradbury.

But the successful Hongkong Captain had one more reason to be pleased with himself. He has taken part in his last three contests in lawn bowls and has achieved the enviable record of never having lost one of them. Therefore, he had much at stake yesterday afternoon, but there is still not a blot on his record, though it came very near to it as Shanghai led by 17-16 on the 20th end.

But will Bradbury's luck hold out? There are still two interport encounters in the offing, the first on Wednesday and the other on Saturday. Perhaps it is not all luck, after all?

In this sixth head, Hongkong were lying two through Duncan and Bradbury. Their supremacy was short-lived as Sequeira spread the bowls with a heavy drive, after which Shanghai were lying three. With his two woods, Sequeira changed the whole complexion of the head and scored a two for the eventual winners; his first delivery was a pretty "toucher" which trailed the jack for a single, but his next wood completed a masterful piece of play which left the Colony's second shot.

Only two fours were gained in yesterday's game and on the 20th end, Omar was responsible for one of them. Though Bradbury opened well for the visitors with two splendid woods almost sitting on the jack, Wilkinson went one better to cut them both out to leave Shanghai the first shot. Madar then sent in a fine draw for the second. Seeing his backwoods well-grouped, Omar trailed the jack right into the midst of three Shanghai woods to score four.

BAD PATCH

Following this success, Hongkong struck a bad patch when after lying four, Omar struck in a Shanghai bowl to present a gift of a single to the local side. At this point, Shanghai were behind by 6-12 but the local rink managed to overhaul their opponents on the 18th head when Wilkinson and Sequeira produced some fine play to set the count at 15-15.

The 20th end produced some extremely exciting play with the advantage changing hands with almost each delivery. Duncan grouped both his woods within inches of the jack in the opening rallies but Wilkinson cut them both out to leave Shanghai the first shot. Madar then sent in a fine draw for the second. Seeing his backwoods well-grouped, Omar trailed the jack right into the midst of three Shanghai woods to score four.

The 21st head, which ended disastrously for Shanghai, did not begin too promisingly with Hongkong lying three when the skips went to the "footers." All looked bright again

AMBERS WINS—Lou Ambers, left, and Henry Armstrong slug mightily during their scrap at Yankee Stadium, New York, which Ambers won, regaining the lightweight title he lost last August to Armstrong. Fans booed decision, yelling "fake" when Armstrong lost 5 rounds on fouls.

For Shanghai as Sequeira cut out two of the Colony's woods with his first draw. This left Hongkong lying first, Sequeira's shot second and another Hongkong wood third, and several tempting Shanghai backwoods.

Sequeira took a sporting chance to send the jack to his woods behind in order to score a victory for the local team. Unfortunately, his delivery struck out his own shot to leave Hongkong lying two, just enough for a triumph.

End by end scores follow:—

Police

Soccer XI

Strengthened

The Police Football Club is looking forward to a very successful soccer season and expect to finish among the leaders. They will have the services of most of last year's players, although Chris Pile, one of the mainstays of their defence and an interporter, has retired.

The Police will shortly be reinforced by a schoolboy international inside forward, Hogarth, who is due next week.

G. Gough has been elected captain for the first and North, interport wing-half, is vice-captain. J. S. Riddell is Secretary.

Mr. L. A. Searle, an outstanding rugby forward, has been elected President.

Chan Kam-fai, former Eastern custodian, who has joined the Force, Aitken and D. H. Taylor, of rugby and swimming fame, are available for goalkeeper, and others available are Blackburn, reliable right-back, Chiu Kwong-yue, Brookes, returning after an absence of two seasons, Ferrier, forward, Wong Mau-kuai, more than useful forward, Fan Kwai-chol, another good forward, Howlett, inside right, Moss, centre-forward, Mok Lan-fan, J. Wall, forward (only available when not playing rugby), Bodie, Tse Siu-yu, Kwok Hing and C. Pope (when not playing cricket).

Several newcomers have yet to be tried out and several practices have already been arranged.

Revival Of Badminton At Kowloon C.C.

BADMINTON is to be revived at the Kowloon Cricket Club after a lapse of about four years. Arrangements have been made for a court to be available to members in the main hall on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, from 3 p.m. It may be recalled that the K.C.C., figured among the first of the local clubs to participate in the Hongkong badminton league and the subsequent trouble with the highly sprung dance floor on which the game was played, made it imperative for badminton to be shelved. Since then alterations have been made permitting the game to be played on a more level surface, one of the features of the K.C.C. winter programme.

Week-end Soccer
LAST Sunday Hongkong soccer enthusiasts had an opportunity of seeing the visiting Halphong-Hanoi footballers in action at Happy Valley. Without meaning to be discourteous to the tourists, I must say that they did not impress me as a team capable of beating some of our best elevens in Hongkong. But anyone could have recognised that if they were lacking in control and combination, they were extremely fast and that their forwards could shoot when they got within shooting distance. A week of practice in local conditions ought to go a long way towards eliminating some of the faults which they revealed last Sunday, and therefore we may expect the combined Halphong-Hanoi team to give a better account of themselves during the week-end when they are due to play two matches. To-day they meet the Combined Chinese and tomorrow they will play the Rest of Hongkong. Both these matches are on the Club ground at Happy Valley.

Remember Him?
IN the list of officers who survived the Courageous disaster is Lieut. M. R. Branwell. How many in Hongkong remember him? It was only a couple of seasons ago that Branwell, who was then attached to the China Station, was making a lot of runs in local cricket. One of the best batsmen in the Navy met of recent years, Branwell, a left-hander, used to open the innings for his side. His friends in Hongkong—and he made many during his brief stay here—will rejoice at his good fortune.

Shanghai Soccer
IN spite of the world crisis, the outlook for the forthcoming football season in Shanghai is still bright as indicated by the attendance at the annual general meeting of the Shanghai Football Association at the Shanghai Engineers' Club. Mr. Freddie S. Bridges, who is one of the city's most ardent supporters of football, was unanimously elected President of the Association following the departure of Mr. R. Grimshaw.

Mr. Max Spleger retained his office as Secretary while the four Vice-Presidents and the rest of the members of the Executive Committee are chosen as follows:—
Vice-President:—Messrs. G. L. Aitchison, M. P. de Campos, T. W. R. Wilson and Captain H. G. Reed.
Executive Committee (in addition to the above six officers):—Messrs. S. E. Burt, H. A. Coward, G. Forbes, J. Reyes, S. Y. Lo, H. F. Marshall and an Army Representative.

The Appeals Committee remain the same as last year. They are Brigadier-General E. B. Macnaghten, Messrs. W. C. G. Clifford, J. W. Morcher, S. S. Hu and J. R. Weeks.

Louis Wins Again
AFTER the first fight between Joe Louis and Bob Pastor, newspaper writers had some sarcastic comments to make about the latter. The following are some of the samples:—"Pastor will always be remembered as the heavyweight who ran backward for 10 rounds faster than Louis could plod forward." "He (Pastor) collected the highest sum ever paid the runner-up in a foot race." "Louis was a polished fighter, a perfectly skilled master of boxing and fighting, he might have emulated a Jim Corbett or a Gene Tunney and fainted his rival in openings. Instead, however, Louis was just like Jack Dempsey in the ring against Tom Gibbons in Shelby, Montana, back in 1923—a paralyzing, litter chasing a back-peddling foe whose one desire was to survive the distance; swinging desperately and missing awkwardly, lifting himself in futile pursuit of a rival who could not be caught." These are not very flattering things to say of a boxer who aspires to become heavyweight champion of the world; but from all accounts these comments appear to have been justified. These two boxers met again at Detroit on Wednesday, and this time Louis managed to pin his rival, knocking him out in the 38th second after the start of the 11th round. To judge by the cables, it would seem that neither Louis nor his rival had any more to say now than he did that night in January, 1937, or that Pastor was standing up to the negro.

Eighth Defence
UNLIKE champions of the past, Joe Louis has been fighting all and sundry since he won the crown. One charge which cannot be levelled at him is that he is reluctant to go into the ring. In fact this fight with Pastor was the eighth defence of the title for Louis, whose full record since winning the championship is as follows:

1937.—Knocked out Jimmy Braddock, eighth round, Chicago, June 22.
1937.—Outpointed Tommy Farr, after 15 rounds, New York, August 30.
1938.—Knocked out Nathan Mann, third round, New York, February 23.
1938.—Knocked out Hurry Thomas, fifth round, Chicago, April 1.
1939.—Knocked out Max Schmeling, first round, New York, June 22.
1939.—Beat John Henry Lewis, fight stopped in first round, New York, January 25.

1939.—Knocked out Jack Roper, first round, Los Angeles, April 18.
1939.—Beat Tony Galento, fight stopped in fourth round, New York, June 28.
1939.—Knocked out Bob Pastor, eleventh round, Detroit, September 20.

It will thus be seen that Wednesday's fight was the first title bout in which he had appeared at Detroit, his home town. In fact this was only his second fight in that city since he turned professional. Once before, he had defeated Natie Brown, of Washington, in Detroit.

SHE BECAME STOUT ALL AT ONCE

Face Nearly Twice as Big as Before

Some people seem to put on weight all of a sudden. You meet them one day, and they are quite normal, then the next time you see them you hardly recognise them, they have become so fat. That was what happened to this woman, who put on 5½ stone before she began taking Kruschen.

"I used to be very thin," she writes, "only 8 stone 8 lbs. Then all at once I got so stout, my friends did not know me. My face was nearly twice the size, I had a double chin and my arms were terribly fat. I weighed 14 stone 2 lbs. Then one day I began taking Kruschen pills. Imagine my surprise when I started going thinner. I am now 10 stone 10 lbs. and I am slim enough for my height, as I am very tall. I have never dieted a bit, and I feel much better in health."

(Mrs.) B.A.
Before the first bottle of Kruschen is finished, the fat starts to go. Then, month after month, the scales tell the same story—a few pounds less of superfluous flesh to burden the body and endanger the health.

Yesterday, the "Telegraph" published a story of an operation aboard the s.s.—, en route to Hongkong from Shanghai. I have been—

A SURGEON AT SEA

by

THE life of a doctor on an ocean liner is more exacting than the average person realises.

A great deal of my anxiety, for instance, centres round the surprising number of elderly ladies who come on a voyage. Perhaps this is due to an experience I had early in my career as a ship's medical man.

I was sent for hurriedly to replace another doctor who had taken ill.

I found there was an old lady on board, and her condition, due to heart trouble, was anything but reassuring.

I can still recall the shock I got on the third day of that trip when this passenger died and was buried at sea. Ever since then I have devoted extra care to elderly women, and I am glad to say that I have had no further such distressing experience.

It is amazing how ladies of my years and upwards, when and where until for ocean travel, will set out to cross oceans, with all the courage of old sea-dogs, in order to see a grand-son married, or to renew some family tie that had lapsed.

My experience with these intrepid travellers ranges from the lady who was carried on board on a stretcher and recovered so well as to walk off at her destination, to the frail old granny in whom the spark of life seemed likely to flicker out with every hour.

My Greatest Worry

The greatest of my worries, however, is the ever-present fear that some serious operation may develop during a voyage.

I have had many cases of appendicitis, which I managed to stave off until a big port was reached, where more adequate facilities for the operation were available.

I have had to operate in cases of urgency, but I frankly admit that I would do almost anything rather than have to perform a serious abdominal operation while at sea.

Every trip there is always a crop of minor accidents. Passengers knock their heads against low beams or trip in passing through a doorway, but sometimes the heavy seas are responsible for accidents of a more unpleasant nature.

On one voyage I looked in to see the conclusion of a whist drive when an unexpectedly severe lurch sent the players, chairs, and some tables into a heap at the other end of the room. There were fifteen

The best method of combating it, however, is not to dwell on the subject, to eat as heartily as possible, get plenty of fresh air, and if you should be sick then be sick and get it over as quickly as you can.

The passengers make a voyage interesting for the doctor and other officers on board, but I will be pardoned for venting one particular personal grievance.

Because I am a doctor everyone referred to that very common seasickness. This distressing complaint is one over which the medical man has little or no control, and his services consist mainly of chatty topics of conversation I much prefer almost anything else.

NEWS FROM PARIS

Car-Rug Coats

Fashion report from the Paris dress shows

PARIS. COATS will swagger again this winter as they did last, but this time the swagger is all at the back. Coming towards you they are plain man-tailored, but turn round to look after them and you will see plenty, flares, every sort of fullness.

But don't be afraid they will make you look bulky; the whole secret of their line is a tight-fitting waist, a plain front, and all the swing in the back of the skirt.

Winter will bring in double-breasted coats, buttoned to the knee, high-revered, more often than not caught in with a half-belt round the back.

They are warm, no-nonsense about them sort of coats. No fancy trimmings; sleeves are plain, shoulders normal, buttons unnoticeable. Just concentrate on that swing back. Most attractive of the new materials is thick, blankety tweed which looks just like those heavy car rugs you see in the back of Rolls-Royces; it comes in rug colours, too—chocolate brown, mustard yellow, and vivid frilly checks.

For collars are tailored, flat; even the usual lumpy-looking foxes are cut down into square sailor collars or just revers.

Every top coat has a pair of pockets; large, flat pockets set right on the hips, just where you want them for putting your hands in on a cold day.

Colours are bright enough to shine through even a London fog; greens, blues, warm peony reds, chocolate browns. But usually you can't go wrong with a good black coat.

Coats are like frocks—16ins. off the ground.

Eggs--Hard Or Soft?

IDEAS of adequate diet alter materially in succeeding generations, thus a despised item of food in one age may become the salvation of the next. Liver in the treatment of anaemia is, of course, an outstanding example of this.

One of the beliefs to which most people have clung faithfully is that hard-boiled eggs are more difficult to digest than those which are lightly-boiled. Consequently, when eggs are down on a home invalid's diet chart they are usually lightly-boiled.

A reader, however, has intimated that she was astonished to discover during a visit to a hospital that one of the nurses there had been asked in an examination how boiled eggs should be prepared for patients' consumption. The nurse had answered "hard-boiled" and been judged correct.

Burying Windows Of Cathedral

The removal of the precious stained glass windows of Canterbury Cathedral began during the crisis week.

Under the direction of experts, they were taken to an unknown place and buried. The Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson, said: "The public will not be informed of the exact site of the burial."

Plain glass windows will be installed as substitutes. No provision is being made for the removal of the stained glass windows of St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey. It is considered that they are not old and valuable enough to warrant the cost.

This model is typical of the new coats—in line and material. It is in a travelling-rug check—brown and yellow—but it has been drawn plainly to let you see the details. The top of the coat is plain, slightly tailored; the waist is small, the back neatly half-belted. The front of the coat is tailor-buttoned. The interest is at the back; fullness springs from under the belt in big box pleats.

Burning Boat Sinks After Rescue of 6

COASTGUARDS on Hurlstone Point, West Somerset, recently saw a cabin-cruiser two miles out burst suddenly into flames. Minehead lifeboat was launched at once and she returned later towing another cabin-cruiser, which had taken on board the six occupants of the burning craft.

The cruiser was the Viking, owned by a member of the Severn Yacht Club. The boats were off Porlock Weir when those in the Viking saw flames beneath the floorboards around the engine.

With fire extinguishers and blankets they endeavoured to smother the flames, but without success. A distress signal was hoisted, and the Loch Marie raced alongside and took off those on board.

Half an hour later the Viking sank.

The rescued were: Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mudford, of Norman Road, Northfield, Birmingham, and their daughters June and Ida, and Mr. J. G. Mudford and his son, Mr. J. W. H. Mudford, of Goldwell Lane, Sheffield.

Those on board the Loch Marie were: Mr. E. E. Wynn, Marchant Road, Wolverhampton, and Mr. E. D. Parry, Oaklands Road, Wolverhampton.

Girls Tell David Niven: Now Read These Rules

FILM-STAR David Niven has got himself into a spot of bother.

Recently the fair sex replied with its own sets of rules to his statement that he will not take out on a second occasion any woman who:

8-YEAR-OLD HOUSEBREAKER

An eight-year-old Northolt, Middlesex, boy was remanded at Ealing Juvenile Court recently, on a charge of breaking and entering a house in Carr Road, Northolt, and stealing two home safes and 30s.

Detective-Sergeant Groom said the boy climbed up a 15ft. stackpipe, and entered the house through the open landing window.

He then opened the front door to let in his two companions, a boy and a girl, each aged three years. Those were far too young to be charged or to know what they were doing.

The children pulled out drawers and their contents and made a pie of hair oil and face powder. All the money, except 1s. 5d., had been spent. "I spent the money on sweets, plums, and ice cream," said the boy, who pleaded guilty.

Picked Up, Dropped Into The Sea

SIDMOUTH, Devon. A BOATMAN'S wrath at seeing his craft mishandled by holidaymakers was termed "amply justified" by the magistrates here recently.

They fined the boatman, Ernest Smith, five shillings for the "technical assault" involved in hoisting the holiday-maker, Mervyn Thomas, by his collar and the seat of his trousers and dropping him into the sea.

Alfred G. Ramsay, of Gravesend, said he saw Thomas and three other youths trying to row a hired boat stern first in a choppy sea.

An elderly fisherman shouted to

1. Asks him to go shopping with her;
2. Asks him to carry packages of any kind;
3. Asks him to fill his pockets with her lipstick, rouge, purse, etc.;
4. Constantly asks him for cigarettes;
5. Makes up in public.

This is what the women say:

Television commentator 22-year-old Olga Edwards, speaking from Alexandra Palace, declared that she would refuse a second invitation from any man who:

1. Refuses to go shopping with me;
2. Refuses to carry my parcels occasionally and is ill-mannered about it;
3. Refuses to put my lipstick in his pocket in an emergency;
4. Refuses to discuss his business with me—I am interested in other people's work;
5. Dislikes hearing me talk about my own work.

Next, short-story writer Celia Dale, of Cannon Place, W.V. She would not go out with a man who:

1. Refuses to go shopping with her;
2. Does not offer to carry her parcels, if any;
3. Insists on ruining his appearance by bulging his pockets with tobacco pouch, cigarette-case, notecase, keys, string, etc.;
4. Does not remember she does not smoke;
5. Lays down five such arbitrary rules for women.

Miss K. Holmes, a secretary, of Prince of Wales Terrace, W., objects to:

1. A man who uses me as an audience to a monologue and never listens to my view;
2. A man who never anticipates my comfort;
3. A man who insists on the Norfolk jacket style when I'm in glad rags;
4. A strong, silent man;
5. A "petty" man who will not carry my parcels in case his dignity be destroyed.

What says Mr. Niven to all that?

them to bring the boat ashore, but they laughed and jeered at him. Eventually the boat drifted ashore, and Thomas and the fisherman exchanged blows, whereupon Smith ran down the beach, picked up Thomas by the collar and pants, and dropped him into the shallow water.

Smith himself said he was not going to stand by and see an old man struck by a young man.

Sea-Bed Palace Legend Upset By Experts

DEGANWY (Denbigh). A 1,000-YEAR-OLD legend that a prince's palace lies under the sea near here was exploded recently.

An expedition to this reputed site of the palace of Prince Llŷs Helli set out from Deganyw to test the theory that a line of submerged rocks, which can be seen at low tide, was a relic of early history.

It has always been held that the palace was overwhelmed by an inundation in the sixth century.

The investigators included Dr. S. J. North, geologist at the National Museum of Wales, and Mr. W. F. Grimes (Southampton Ordnance Survey Archaeological Department).

Putting on bathing suits, Mr. Grimes and others got out of their boots and paddled round, testing points along the line of the outcrop. Dr. North collected samples of stones. It was a strange sight to see these experts apparently walking about in the open sea.

Soon, Dr. North had a big "bag" of specimens to take back to his laboratory for examination. The formation of the rocks strongly suggested human design, but Dr. North said he could see no reason for supposing that the site was to be associated with the legend.

He did not disbelieve the legend. The palace might well have been

LATE NEWS

Plane Lost In Blackout!

C.N.A.C. Pilot Found It Efficient

Proving the efficiency of Hong-kong's blackout, the C.N.A.C. plane which arrived from Chungking late at night was puzzled by the disappearance of the lights and for 20 minutes circled vainly round trying to pick up the hearing of the Kai Tak airport.

Passengers in the plane, who have often arrived here at night by air, told a "Telegraph" representative on arrival last night that they were unable to identify the outline of the Colony.

"We were afraid that our plane would accidentally bump into the darkened Peak while it was circling round, but later on the airport landing benches were switched on and we made a good landing," one said.

A check up on some of the hospitals in the Colony indicates that three "blackout" babies were born. They were all Chinese.

In one of the Chinese hospitals, forces had to be used by the doctors during the birth of one of the infants.

Port Was Closed
One liner which hoped to tie up before 11 p.m. found itself at the entrance of the harbour just at that time. The closure of the port kept it there, with all lights but navigation lights out, for almost two hours. In the reduced harbour lighting and sounding its siren frequently, it then moved into port and tied up about 12.30 p.m.

Under the regulations forbidding ships to telegraph their movements even "the streets were uncertain whether she would arrive before the closure, so that many people were waiting on the wharf at 8 p.m. They drifted away when the time of the closure of the port arrived.

"Kowloon Splendid"
The worst area in this respect was the sea front where it was difficult to move.

"Kowloon was splendid, the streets being considerably clearer than Hong-kong, and its blackout was 100 per cent," he said.

"The object in prolonging the blackout was to try and discover if those individuals, who sit in cinemas rather than take any blackout precautions in their homes, would co-operate when they returned to their homes. Some of them did switch on their lights when they were getting into bed and had not darkened windows."

Men Know Duties
Car lighting was appreciably better this time, he said, and there were fewer cars on the road.

"The ideal we want to aim at is to keep unnecessary cars off the road," he pointed out.

The exercise proved that the A.R.P. personnel unquestionably knew their duties.

"The success of the blackout was no doubt entirely due to the full co-operation which the public gave me and to the very efficient manner in which all the A.R.P. carried out their duties as well as the public at large. I should like to express my very deep gratitude for their hearty co-operation," he said.

Officials Pleased
Air observers have reported that it was an excellent blackout and the only person who would not have been pleased with the result would be a possible air-raider. The Air Raid Precautions Officer, Wing Commander A. H. S. Steele-Perkins told a "Telegraph" representative to-day.

"One thing must be remedied. The public must keep off the streets. If we are ever subjected to an air attack, people would soon learn to keep off the streets by seeing the number of casualties. Everyone must take cover and shelter," he said.

"By standing about in the streets, people had greatly impaired the efficiency of the A.R.P. services. Motor drivers were forced to proceed with difficulty and at slow speed in order to avoid running people down."

SURPRISE TAXES FORECAST

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—When Sir John Simon opens his first war budget on September 27, he will face a House fully determined to accept the Chancellor's proposals as inevitable, and to be passed as rapidly as parliamentary procedure permits.

The period to be covered is up to March 31 next, in respect of which a special war supplementary credit— which must be financed by the next budget—of £500,000,000 had already been granted.

Disregarding war expenditure, outgoings already provided for in the April, 1939 budget were approximately £1,400,000,000, of which £500,000,000 were to be borrowed and £900,000,000 raised from revenue.

Of the total of £1,400,000,000, half was to be spent on rearmament. Obviously a vastly greater sum than £700,000,000 will be required for this purpose as a result of the war.

Consequently Sir John Simon may be expected to produce some surprises in the field of taxation when he speaks on Wednesday next.

"Reuter" Issues Statement

SHANGHAI, Sept. 23 (Reuter).—Commenting on an article referring to the Sino-Japanese peace rumours, a section of Hongkong's press (the newspaper in question was one of our morning contemporaries) and the remarks contained therein concerning the reporting of these rumours by "Reuters," the agency's Shanghai office has issued the following statement:

"The only comment Reuters have to make in this connection is to point out that rumours were prevalent in Shanghai that did affect the Sino-Japanese exchange market, and that therefore both the cause and effect were items of news worthy of being reported."

Big Freight Increase Questioned

When you are asked for a mere 20 or 30 cents more for a tin of beans than the peace time charge perhaps the profiteering comprador is not altogether to blame.

Whether a little of the blame may not be shared home to the shipping companies is a question which will be debated by the Urban Council on Tuesday.

When the Council meets on that day Mr. C. Champkin will ask: "Has it been brought to the notice of the Chairman that the Trans-Pacific Freight Bureau of Hongkong has increased freight charges on trans-Pacific cargo by 50 per cent?"

If so will he make enquiries as to what justification exists for this imposition in view of the fact that it is principally freight rates that determine the price of imported food-stuff."

CANADIAN ASSISTANCE

OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The Canadian Government is planning to assist Britain by the intensive training of R.A.F. personnel.

A message received by the Canadian High Commissioner in London from the Canadian National Defence Minister, states that the British Government had indicated that Canada would be of most assistance at once by facilitating the purchase of essential supplies in Canada.

This involves the immediate clearing up of Canadian industry to meet the heavy demands, and of finding some way whereby Canadian dollars will be available for the British Government to purchase the needed supplies.

The Canadian navy is co-operating with the British navy in the protection of the Canadian east coast ports. The Canadian anti-submarine defences are to be improved, and more mine-sweepers are to be built.

Canadians Enlist
OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Enlistment for the Canadian expeditionary force which is to be sent overseas if required, is coming in a steady flow.

One man trekked 70 miles to the nearest recruiting depot to enlist.

New Defence Minister
OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Mr. Norman McLeod Rogers, has been appointed Canadian Defence Minister. He was Labour Minister in 1935.

Canada's chief press censor is Mr. Thomson, who was responsible for the arrangements during the Royal tour.
